

God is ALL in All

About This Publication

This PDF is a complete reproduction of the Philosophy Hub from the God is ALL in All website. It brings together philosophical teachings, timeless principles, and contemplations on the nature of Existence, Consciousness, Divine Unity, and the relationship between humanity and the Universal Source. Drawing upon the Perennial Philosophy and the Wisdom of the great philosophical traditions, this publication explores the pursuit of Truth, the Awakening of Understanding, and the Realization that Wisdom is not merely Knowledge acquired, but Truth Consciously Recognized and Lived.

This is a Philosophical and Spiritual endeavor to extract, Harmonize, and synthesize the Universal Truths underlying the world's Diverse Religious, Mystical, and Philosophical traditions. Most famously associated with the concept of Perennial Philosophy, it posits that All Major Traditions share a single, transcendent metaphysical Source and Core Set of Truths.

"By the Power of Truth, I, while Living, have Conquered the Universe."

"I Am Nothing, yet I Am Everything."

Welcome to the foundation. Before the architecture of the Mind can be understood, and before the Immutable Laws of the Universe can be Consciously applied, we must first establish the Origin of All Existence.

This archive is the House of Wisdom, the culmination of nearly three decades of dedicated academic study and silent Knowingness—a deliberate synthesis of the Universal Truths that weave through the world's Hermetics, Theosophy, Philosophy, Religion, Symbolism, and Esoteric traditions brought together, not to erase their differences, but to invite careful study of the deeper questions they all address, the Connectedness of All Things. We do not approach these mechanics as mere dogma, but as the functional, logical Reality of the Cosmos.

The central thesis of this work is that beneath humanity's many Religious, Mystical, and Philosophical traditions lies a Single Transcendent Source that has been described in different languages throughout history. Throughout this website, Historical Context is presented alongside Esoteric Interpretation. Historical Context Seeks to Understand what a text meant within its original time and culture. Esoteric Interpretation explores the Symbolic and Spiritual significance that Seekers have found within those same texts across the centuries. Both perspectives are valuable. One Illuminates the Letter; the other Seeks the Spirit.

At the Absolute Center of this Perennial Philosophy lies a singular, foundational revelation: God is the ALL-in-All.

Philosophy

"Philosophy is to the Mind what Health is to the Body"

"The word Philosophy was first used by Pythagoras, the greatest of the Grecian Initiates, who is accredited with having created the term. The word itself means: Friendship for or Love of Wisdom. A Philosopher then is One Who Loves Wisdom, whose Life is Devoted to the Discovery and Application of Truth. That which we Love we Serve and a Philosopher is One Who Loves Wisdom so sincerely that he Becomes its Servant, Obeys its Laws and Dedicates Himself to its Principles. A Philosopher is not one who reads, studies or memorizes the Thoughts or Opinions of Others, but One who so Cherishes the Great Ideals of the race that he Lives a harmless and Creative Life, achieving the Highest Axiom of the Platonists."
— Manly P. Hall

Philosophical Aphorisms, Epigrams, and Maxims

I. The Architecture of Universal Mind

The Dual Nature of Mind: An essential clarification of the Esoteric mechanics distinguishing the Infinite Universal Mind from the Universal Subconscious Mind. This text explains how the Active, Conscious Principle of Divine Will Perfectly Interacts with the Passive, unresisting medium of the Subconscious to Manifest All Reality, serving as a foundational guide to the Two-Fold Creative process operating within both the Cosmos and the Individual.

Universal Mind is your Mind: An affirmation that the Infinite Universal Mind is the First Cause of All Things and is Intricately woven Within every person. It explains that our Mental Attitude Acts as a Magnet to Attract Everything we need from this Singular, Creative Source.

Consciousness Is All Pervasive: A breakdown of how the All-Pervasive Force of Consciousness acts as the Seed of Creation that determines Every Event and Circumstance in Life. It defines the roles of the Conscious, Subconscious, and Super-Conscious Minds in Actively Shaping Reality and Connecting the Individual to the Infinite Field of Potential.

The Nature of Consciousness: A synthesis mapping the Evolution of Awareness from ordinary physical identification to Divine Integration. It discusses how Higher Centers of Awareness are veiled by the lower personality and provides practices for unveiling them to achieve Cosmic Consciousness.

Universal Mind Meditations: The foundational Understanding that the Infinite Universal Mind of God Almighty is the First Cause of All Things and is Intricately woven Within every person.

Electrons and the Light of God: A synthesis of Physics and Spirituality illustrating that the Electron is Pure, Intelligent Light-Energy and the True Substance of the Universe. It explains how human Thought and Feeling Consciously Control Atomic Structures, acting as the machinery of Divine Manifestation.

II. The Path of Practical Mysticism

What it means to Be a Mystic: An exploration of the Inner Journey, defining the Mystic as one who Seeks Conscious Union with God through Intuitional Experience, a Focused Will, and a Heavily Guarded Chamber of Mental Alchemy.

The Philosopher's Stone: An exploration of the Ultimate Goal of Spiritual Alchemy and the Magnum Opus. This text deconstructs the exoteric myth of transmuting physical lead into gold, revealing the Profound Philosophical process of Purifying the lower, animalistic nature to Awaken the Eternal, Golden Consciousness of the Divine Within.

The Mechanics of Meditation and Silence: This text defines Silence and Meditation as Active Mechanisms for Spiritual Transformation. It explains how shutting out the external world and focusing on Changeless Spirit allows the Individual to Merge with the Infinite Mind.

True Religion vs Organized Religion: This document defines True Religion as the Inward Realization of the Indwelling Divine Principle, which requires the Sacrifice of the Personal Self-Will. It contrasts this with organized religion, which breeds separation, emotional suppression, and rigid dogma by acting as an unnecessary middle-man to the Divine.

MAN — GOD: A philosophical exploration of the Unity between humanity and the Divine, examining the Illusion of Separation, the distinction between Intellectual Belief and Conscious Realization, and the Awakening to the Eternal Truth that God is the Totality of One's Being.

I Am Really on the Path: A practical checklist for Spiritual Living that emphasizes Forgiveness, Present-Moment Awareness, and viewing All Daily work as Sacred. It highlights the Unconditional practice of the Golden Rule as the Ultimate Marker of Spiritual Progress.

III. Divine Principles and Classical Allegory

Dante Alighieri's Inferno: An exploration of the Divine Comedy as a hidden blueprint for Spiritual Initiation. It reveals how Dante utilized Sacred Geometry, Hermetic Principles, and Dense Allegory to map the exact process of the Soul's Internal Transmutation and Ultimate Ascent toward Divine Wisdom (Sophia).

The Essence of Divine Wisdom: An exploration of Wisdom as the Right Use of Manifestation and Knowledge Perfected through Inward Realization. It explains how Awakening the Philosophical Fire of Sophia cultivates a "Knowing Heart," Reconciling All Opposites in Perfect Balance and bringing the Soul into Direct, Ecstatic Kinship with the Divine.

Plato's Allegory of the Cave: An exploration of Plato's famous Allegory illustrating the human condition, the illusion of sensory experience, and the Philosopher's difficult Ascent out of Ignorance Toward Ultimate Reality and the Form of the Good.

Rod and Staff: An exploration of the dual nature of Divine Providence, representing both the masculine force of protection and correction (the rod) and the feminine energy of gentle guidance and support (the staff). It highlights how genuine Spiritual Guidance requires the Integration of both Active and Passive Energies.

The Dual Nature of Mind: Conscious and Subconscious

"The Universal Mind is the Infinite, Active Intelligence of the Cosmos, but the Universal Subconscious is the unresisting medium through which that Intelligence takes Form. One is the seed; the other is the soil."

When stepping onto the path of Esoteric study, the Seeker will frequently encounter the terms "Infinite Universal Mind" and "Universal Subconscious Mind." To the beginner, these terms may appear interchangeable, but they actually describe two entirely distinct phases of the exact same Divine Creative Process.

There is only ONE Mind, which is the Infinite Universal Mind of God All-Mighty, serving as the First Cause of All Things. However, to Understand how Reality is manifested, we must Recognize that this One Mind operates through a dual nature: an Active, Directing Principle, and a Passive, Formative Principle.

The Infinite Living Universal Mind (The Active Principle)

The Infinite Living Mind is the Active, Conscious Will of the Divine. It is Consciousness itself, the very Substance of Spirit, standing above nature and over matter as the Master of the Elements.

As the ancient Hermetic axiom states, "The ALL is Mind; The Universe is Mental". The Infinite Universal Mind is the Absolute Architect of Existence. In its Creative aspect, the Infinite Mind generates magnificent waves of Vibratory Energy through the simple effort of its Will, manifesting the very particles of which All matter is made. It is the Ultimate Source of Intelligence, meaning every breakthrough in science, every discovery in physics, and every profound insight in psychology comes Directly from this Universal Mind. It does not merely build the Universe; it Actively Directs It.

The Universal Subconscious Mind (The Passive Medium)

If the Infinite Universal Mind is the Active Will, the Universal Subconscious Mind is the passive, receptive Law that Executes that Will. It is the vast, mechanical medium of manifestation.

The Universal Subconscious does not initiate ideas, nor does it reason or argue; it simply takes whatever impression is given to it and automatically sets the Cosmic machinery in motion to produce it in physical form. It does not judge based on beliefs, social standing, or background; it is completely Unconditional in the manifestation of Life. Because it is entirely subjective, it acts as a flawless mirror, faithfully reproducing whatever seeds are planted within it.

The Mechanics of Manifestation

Creation requires both aspects of the Mind to work in Perfect Harmony. Everything ever Created by the hands of man was first conceived in the Universal Mind before being channeled through human Consciousness.

Because matter is Pure Spirit and a direct manifestation of Divine Intelligence, it is Entirely Subject to the Will and efforts of the Infinite. When a Focused Thought is held, it is impressed upon the unresisting Universal Subconscious. From there, our Mental attitude acts as a Powerful magnet that Attracts everything we need from the Universal Mind to bring our desires into physical being. The Subconscious blindly and perfectly obeys the polarity of the Conscious Thought, whether that Thought is rooted in fear or in Absolute Faith.

As Above, So Below

The most profound Realization for the Seeker is that the Supreme Intelligence Permeates Every Single Cell of Our Being. Because the Universal Mind is intricately woven within every person ever Created, this exact dual mechanism operates within every human being.

The Individual's Conscious Mind Directs their Focus and Intent, while their personal Subconscious Mind acts as a direct, unbreakable conduit to the Universal Subconscious. By aligning their personal Thoughts with the Universal Mind, the Seeker learns to establish themselves High on the Scale of Life, allowing the natural swings of hardship and fear to pass far below their current State of Awareness. By Understanding this Infinite Law of supply and clearly directing the Subconscious medium, we demonstrate plenty and draw Unlimited Power to ourselves, moving far beyond humble limitations.

Universal Mind is your Mind

There is only One Mind, which is the Infinite Universal Mind of God All-Mighty. This Mind is Consciousness itself, the very substance of Spirit, standing as the First Cause of All Things, above nature, over matter, and serving as the Master of the elements. It must be heavily stressed that absolutely All of Creation comes directly from this Universal Mind. It is the only True Intelligence in existence, Supreme and Eternal, and when we reach this understanding, fear dissolves because we Realize this Mind is the Creator of Life only. Before you were even created, the Universal Mind held in Thought a perfect model of you, and that is the only idea of you it knows—a model where every cell and organism is formed along perfect lines.

This Supreme Intelligence permeates every single cell of our being and is accessible to us as an Infinite Wisdom. The Universal Mind is intricately woven within every person ever Created. It is, in fact, your Mind, identical to the Almighty unmanifest—giving you access to incredible, Divine Power. As ancient Wisdom from the "Lord of the Word" expresses, Life is the Soul and Light is the Mind; whoever is endued with Mind must know themselves to be Immortal, Recognizing that the Love of the physical body is the cause of death. By recognizing our True Spiritual Nature, we enter into the state of the Good, or God. We are even commanded to go forth as guides to those in darkness, so that the Spirit of the Universal Mind within us may call forth that exact same Mind lying dormant within others.

Because there is only One Universal Mind constituting all Substance, Wisdom, and Power, it naturally follows that All Knowledge originates from this single, Infinite Source. Every breakthrough in science, every discovery in physics, and every profound insight in psychology comes directly from the Universal Mind. Furthermore, Everything ever Created by the hands of man is actually a manifestation of this Divine Thought. From the simplest homes to the most magnificent Cathedrals, from early wagons to modern automobiles, and from the first printed books to advanced computers and AI—all of these marvels were first conceived in the Universal Mind before being channeled through human Consciousness. Whoever has access to this Universal Mind becomes a party to All That Is or can be done, because it is the Sovereign, driving agent behind all invention, progress, and Reality.

We inherently share in the Creative Power of the Universal Mind, possessing the ability to turn the drabbest existence into a Life of beauty and to reach any goal we set. The Universal Mind sees All, Knows All, and can Do All, and we share in this Absolute Power to the exact extent that we permit ourselves to receive It. Our Mental attitude acts as a Powerful magnet that Attracts everything we need from the Universal Mind to bring our desires into physical being. We make this magnet strong or weak depending entirely on our confidence or our doubt. Therefore, we must not be afraid to claim our Divine Inheritance. By Understanding its Infinite Law of supply, we demonstrate plenty and draw Unlimited Power to ourselves, moving far beyond humble limitations according to the strength of our Faith.

Consciousness is All Pervasive

Consciousness Is The All Pervasive Underlying Force that Sustains Life on a Cosmic Scale and determines EVERY Event, Condition, Circumstance Experienced In Your Life. Consciousness is the driving force, the seed of all creation, the All which pervades and permeates the entire Cosmos.

"To see things in the seed, that is genius" —Lao-Tzu

All Of Creation, Individually and Collectively, Both Seen And Unseen...from the Microscopic to the Macroscopic and beyond, when traced to Its Origin is the result of Consciousness, the very substance of Spirit. The quality of your Consciousness determines the quality of your LIFE and YOU are the One who chooses that for yourself.

Choose Consciously...

Live Consciously...

Create Consciously...

and you will experience a quality of Life that you may have previously "perceived" as being unattainable, your Awareness of your Consciousness is the one and only thing that "enables and allows" your life to become as you desire it to be.

Consciousness and the aspects of Mind that enable and allow Consciousness to Transmute into Tangible and Measurable Life Experiences

Should you mention Consciousness and ask the average person what it means, most will reply that it refers to an "Awake State."

That's actually far "Truer" than most understand. But at the same time, it's quite a limited perspective based on how most view being Conscious and awake. The reason that's "True" is simply because being "awake" and being Conscious go beyond walking around with our eyes open as we engage in the many physical activities that we perform each and every day.

In fact, most engage in their day-to-day activities quite "Unconsciously" and as a result "Perceive" that Life just delivers what it will. In the vast majority of cases, due to this "asleep with eyes wide open state" (Zombies), what life delivers is in more cases than not, far less than desired and precisely why so many believe that getting what they want is hopeful or wishful thinking at best. But it's not. Many are just "Unknowingly and Unconsciously" choosing that for themselves. That's why it's so vital to become Conscious of how you utilize your Consciousness which clearly reveals how and why you experience whatever it is that you DO experience in your life.

Once you understand that Consciousness...more specifically the quality of your Consciousness is what determines every aspect of your Life and you choose to direct and harmonize yours with what you "Truly Desire"...you'll get it.

And it NEVER fails. In fact, it CAN'T fail. NEVER has and NEVER will.

So let's explore Consciousness and how you can become "Awake" to the Power that you, I and everyone already has to begin Creating and Experiencing a kind and quality of Life that you may have previously "perceived" as being unattainable for you.

The Consciousness we'll be exploring in the upcoming paragraphs has much more to do with the Creation of Life...more specifically your Life and the events, conditions and circumstances experienced in your Life than being "Awake" in the physical sense of the word.

It's literally the seed level from where life flows from. It's my hope that the following will assist you in "Truly Awakening" to a much "Higher Truth" than most choose and through that Understanding that you might begin experiencing the transformation in your own Life that's made available and possible through "Consciously Choosing" to do so.

Let's begin by exploring "Consciousness" at a deeper level...

Consciousness is the seed of all of Creation. According to modern day scientists as well as the Mystics, Sages and Masters since antiquity, Consciousness is the Omniscient, Omnipresent, All-Pervasive substance...the Essence if you will behind ALL existence both the seen and the unseen...The Source of Every event, condition and circumstance experienced in your life individually as well as on a global scale.

To discover how to begin to ingeniously Create your Reality Consciously, intentionally and purposefully is as simple and complex as choosing to awaken, enhance your Awareness, and begin Consciously utilizing your inalienable right...your power to choose in such a way that harmonizes with what you "Truly Desire" rather than what you don't want.

It's through awakening and becoming "Conscious" in a larger-than-life kind of way that you'll reclaim your Power to do so. The awakening I'm referring to is achieved through choosing to enhance and expand your Awareness regarding life and the unfailing, never wavering process...what I often refer to as The Perfect Plan that determines HOW each and every aspect of Life unfolds as well as WHY it unfolds as it does. Depending on your current depth of Understanding regarding your individual Creative ability to be, do and have whatever you choose for yourself, it may prove beneficial to explore and develop an understanding of Universal Laws (read The Kybalion), also referred to as Laws of Nature or Spiritual Laws as well as Quantum Physics to provide you with a solid foundational Understanding as to how and why Consciousness plays such a major role in Creating each and every event, condition and circumstance in both your individual life as well as the ever unfolding process of Creation determining how ALL Things in the world around you come to be.

All of Creation, those things which can be seen and experienced in the physical world as well as the unseen or meta-physical aspects of Creation, when traced to their origin exist as the result of and can always be traced back to Consciousness.

In order to grasp and fully comprehend the crucial nature of Consciousness as it relates to the physical, financial, relational, emotional and Spiritual aspects of your Life and to establish the level of Self-Awareness necessary to become a purposeful, intentional and Conscious Creator of the events, conditions and circumstances which make up the moment by moment experiences in your life, an Understanding of this All Pervasive Creative Force...this Essence that we all engage in every second of every minute of every day, is Absolutely Essential for those who choose to Master their game.

The seed that will both enable and empower you to begin Consciously Creating your Reality in a far more desirable and predictable manner than the vast majority "perceive" as being rational, logical, practical, feasible or even possible for that matter, is the Awareness of your Consciousness.

The importance of becoming and remaining Consciously Aware of your individual Consciousness (your THOUGHTS) which serves as the often times overlooked and misunderstood source or cause of the events, conditions, and circumstances which make up EVERY area of your Life as well as the little understood aspects of Consciousness which serve as the driving Force behind all of Creation.

Through discovering these "seemingly" individual and separate aspects of Consciousness, it will become quite evident that all that exists, from the macroscopic to the microscopic and beyond all inevitably lead to and are the result of "One True Source" referred to as the Super-Conscious Mind.

This Super-Conscious Mind has been provided many labels. God, Source Energy, Higher Power, Brahman, etc.

The first and most vital part of becoming Conscious and Utilizing the quality of your Consciousness intentionally, purposefully and consistently begins by making the choice to keep an open Mind and become Aware that what you may "perceive" as being "True" may be the very "Truth" that is keeping you from Creating and experiencing the kind and quality of life that you so desire for yourself.

The Conscious Mind

The Conscious or objective aspect of Mind which is finite in nature is the aspect of Mind connected to the physical or finite world. The Conscious aspect of Mind is what determines your normal or day to day level of Awareness. The Conscious is limited to the physical and finite although plays a vital and necessary role in every aspect of your life. In addition to planning, reason and logical thinking processes etc. it's the Conscious aspect of Mind that enables us to be Conscious of the fact that we are Conscious at all first of all. It enables us to fully appreciate Life and the things…events, conditions and circumstances we encounter and experience in Life.

The Subconscious Mind

The Subconscious aspect of Mind, which is "Infinite" in nature is the subjective or right brained aspect of Mind whose primary purpose is for the storage of data, the preservation and restoration of health and serves as the communication device or the "connecting link" with the Super-Conscious Mind also referred to as God, Universal Intelligence, "The Infinite Field Of Potential" or as science has labeled he/she/it "The Unified Field." OR as I call it — The Fabric of Infinity

The Collective Consciousness

The Collective Consciousness is made up of the "perceived" individual Consciousnesses of the planet's population which serve collectively to form a "Matrix" or appearance of reality from a physical perspective. The Collective Consciousness is also referred to as the Gaia Mind that attempts to keep you limited and in check. Those who choose to remain asleep and "unconscious" of this aspect of Mind are kept in just that state. In check and limited as the vast majority is.

The Super-Conscious Mind

The Super Consciousness or Super-Conscious Mind is the ONE Mind, The ALL which makes up the whole of each individualized Consciousness, each of which exists as an integral part of this "One True Mind" differentiated only by individual ego and Free Will. The Super-Conscious Mind is the Omniscient, Omnipresent, All-Knowing and Ever-Present Source which serves as and determines how Every event, condition and circumstance, both the physical as well as the meta-physical into Infinity unfolds.

The Nature of Consciousness: A Synthesis of Esoteric Thought

The study of Consciousness is the study of Existence itself. Across various Philosophical, Esoteric, and Spiritual traditions, Consciousness is not viewed merely as a byproduct of the biological brain, but as the fundamental Fabric of Reality. The following insights are compiled from various foundational texts and teachings on the Universal Mind, mapping the journey from ordinary awareness to Divine Integration.

The Source and the Mind

God is not an independent Creator, but rather Consciousness itself and the Source of All Creation. The expression of this God-Self rests inside the individual, as humanity is a fractal produced of, by, and from Source Consciousness. God can be understood as a verb or a "quantum field," acting as both the composer of the Universal symphony and the orchestra itself. Consciousness is Eternal, and the Inner Sense of Being - the "I"- is GOD. Thoughts are a form of Energy, and together, Consciousness and Thought constitute the Mind. The Mind creates Reality, meaning that what an individual holds firmly within their Consciousness is brought into external existence.

The Veils of Illusion

Higher states of Awareness, such as Self-Consciousness and objective Consciousness, are fully developed and working within humanity at All Times. These Higher Centers fail to reach ordinary Awareness because they are veiled by the static and noise of the lower personality. Identifying strictly with the ego, physical bodies, and titles creates a subjective layer that blocks the perception of the Universal Self. Living mechanically on "autopilot" through unconscious impulses and habits traps the Mind in repetitive loops. Scattered attention and heavy emotional states, such as fear or vanity, act as a dense fog that dissipates the energy required to activate these Higher Centers.

The Evolution of Awareness

Human consciousness evolves through sequential levels, beginning at the first level with a complete identification with one's physical and social environment. As Awareness expands to the second and third levels, individuals experience disillusionment with external Reality and begin exploring their internal environment, Mind, and Heart. Intermediate levels of Consciousness involve Consciously choosing Thoughts, Practicing Mindfulness, and offering service based on Spiritual alignment rather than external validation. At the Highest levels of Consciousness, an individual identifies minimally with their physical environment and functions as Pure Energy, becoming a Spiritual Bridge and a conduit for Universal Love and Divine Power. The achievement of "Christ Consciousness" occurs when a person Consciously demonstrates Divinity through attributes like Unconditional Love and Compassion.

"Cosmic Consciousness" is a state reached through Intuition or Samadhi, where the individual ego melts away, all sense of separateness disappears, and the soul experiences perfect Awareness of ONENESS with the Supreme Lord and the Universe.

Practices for Unveiling the Higher Centers

To draw aside the veil, one must practice self-observation by watching Thoughts without judgment, which creates a gap between the observer and the observed. Maintaining intentional presence and "divided attention" stops the leakage of Energy and acts as a magnet for Higher Influences. The practice of Transmutation refines the Energy usually spent on lower physical or emotional impulses.

Studying the symbolic Laws of the Universe helps the Mind align with Higher Truths and reflect the underlying patterns of Reality.

Taking Conscious control over Thoughts, rather than allowing external conditions to control them, gives a person the authority to create their own destiny.

A specific exercise for developing Universal Consciousness involves rhythmic breathing in a relaxed position, meditating on drawing in the Power of the Universal Mind during inhalation, and passing out Love to others during exhalation.

Common Esoteric Symbols for Consciousness

Point within a Circle (Circumpunct): Represents individual Consciousness (the Divine Spark) within the Universal Consciousness (Cosmic Whole).

Lotus Flower: Symbolizes the unfolding of Spiritual Consciousness, often referred to as the "Lotus of the Heart."

Eye: Represents Omniscience, Awareness, and the "All-Seeing" nature of Higher Consciousness.

Spiral: Represents the evolution, expansion, and unfolding of Consciousness.

Om (ॐ): The fundamental Sacred Sound representing the essence of Ultimate Reality and Consciousness.

The Ouroboros: A snake eating its own tail, symbolizing Eternity and the cyclic nature of Consciousness.

The Tree of Life: Used in Esoteric Anatomy to represent the structure of Consciousness.

Explanations of these Symbols can be found in the SYMBOLOGY hub on the website.

Universal Mind Meditations

"Three Magic Words" by Uell S Anderson

First Meditation

I know that I am Pure Spirit, that I always have been, and that I always will be. There is inside me a place of Confidence and quietness and security where ALL THINGS are Known and Understood. This is the Universal Mind, God, of which I am a part and which responds to me as I ask of it. This Universal Mind knows the answer to All of my problems, and even now the answers are speeding their way to me. I needn't struggle for them; I needn't worry or strive for them. When the time comes, the answers will be there. I give my problems to the great Mind of God; I let go of them, confident that the correct answers will return to me when they are needed. Through the Great Law of Attraction, everything in Life that I need for my work and fulfillment will come to me. It is not necessary that I strain about this, only believe. For in the strength of my belief, my Faith will make it so. I see the hand of Divine Intelligence all about me, in the flower, the tree, the brook, the meadow. I know that the Intelligence that created all these things is in me and around me and that I can call upon it for my slightest need. I Know that my body is a manifestation of Pure Spirit and that Spirit is Perfect; therefore, my body is perfect also. I enjoy Life, for each day brings a constant demonstration of the Power and wonder of the Universe and myself. I am confident. I am serene. I am sure. No matter what obstacle or undesirable circumstance crosses my path, I refuse to accept it, for it is nothing but illusion. There can be no obstacle or undesirable circumstance to the Mind of God, which is in me, and around me, and serves me now.

Second Meditation

I Know that I am one with the Universal Mind. I know this Mind is Perfect and I may rely upon it for Complete Guidance in All of my daily affairs. This Universal Mind, this great Subconscious Mind, this Mind of God knows no evil or limitation or lack. It simply Creates in my experience that which I believe and accept. Therefore, I deny all evil and all error. When my eyes and my senses are deluded with the apparent circumstance of evil, I turn away, lifting my Thoughts to the perfection and abundance and Love of All the Universe. I Know that God does not create evil; and I Know that by using the Power of God I am able to deny evil, which is only illusion, simply error, and will not stand before Truth. For the Great Reality is good, which is always attempting to manifest itself. I Know that error or evil is the result of my own Thought, is the result of error on my part, is the result of isolating myself from the Power of the Universal Mind. I Know that the Universal Mind is constantly Creating in my experience that which I THINK, and if evil is manifested, it has come from my own Thought; and my own Thought may as quickly deny it. I do not Will anything to happen, for I am not bigger than God. I simply Understand that the Law of Creation is bigger than I am and that I cannot help my Thoughts and beliefs from becoming real in my experience. Therefore, I hold my Thoughts steadfastly on the good. I do not do this with effort, as if I were commanding something to act. I simply relax in contemplation of the good, secure in the Knowledge that everything rests with a Power much greater than I am. I Trust this Power. I have Complete Faith and Confidence in this Power. I rely upon this Power for Guidance in All my daily affairs. I refuse to accept evil, and evil is gone. I accept good, and the supply and Love of the Universe are mine.

Third Meditation

I Know and recognize my ONENESS with ALL THINGS. I Know that All form and All circumstance are the Creation of an Infinite Intelligence that is in and around me. I Know that All Things are the result of conception and desire, that my world is ordered according to my own Thoughts and convictions. Therefore, I concentrate on Harmony. I see nothing but order and constructiveness all about me. I do not accept Thoughts of destructiveness and disharmony. In my friends, my Loved Ones, my fellow workers; I see nothing but cooperation and assistance. I Know that we all seek the same answers and the same goals. I Know that each person must follow a different path toward his vision, and I Understand the searchings and the copings of everyone I Know and see. I have sympathy and tolerance for All Things and All people. I Know that inasmuch as I help others, I help myself. In my brother's eye there is my own Soul. In my friend's smile there is my own humor. In my neighbor's sorrow there is my own loss, I have compassion and Understanding for All Things, for this Life in which I have my being strives for Understanding of itself. I deny error; it is simply progress toward Truth. I Know that it is impossible to fail when Faith is present. I do not order things to be made in my time or in my place, but Trust the Universal Mind in its own great Knowledge of the time and the place and the need and the way. Each moment of each day brings my Life closer to Realization. The objects of my work are being accomplished this very minute. Success and Harmony, Peace and Confidence are mine.

Fourth Meditation

I Know that all of Life exists within me. Here in my Heart and Mind, in the recesses of my being, there is utter calm, a place of unruffled and placid waters, where the Truth is apparent and the clamor of the world does not exist. I see about me the Thoughts of All mankind, for these Thoughts have become things. Whatever is good among these Thought-things I accept; whatever is evil I ignore; for my concern is only with Truth and Understanding, which is forever the lovely and the good and the expanding. My Mind moves easily to the furthermost reaches of space, in All directions, and just as easily moves back to me once again. I am the Center of the Universe. God, the Universal Subconscious Mind, has made Himself manifest through me. I Know that my purpose in life is to reach ever upward and outward, to expand in Knowledge and Love and Unity. I place my future in Divine hands. I turn over each problem of my Life to that great All-Knowing Mind to which All Things are possible. I do not tell God how to bring these things about. I have complete confidence that every circumstance that comes my way is part of a perfect plan to convert the image of my Faith into physical Reality. Even now the Universe seeks to answer my every need. As I believe in my Heart, so shall it be done unto me; this is the Law of Life and of Living. There is greatness in my friend and in my enemy, for we are all brothers seeking the same High Mountain along many paths. God, who made All Creatures, made no poor creature, for He made only of Himself. I am prosperous for God owns everything. I am vigorous for God is All vigor. I need only open my Mind and my Heart, keep my Thoughts in the path of Truth, and I am filled to overflowing with the Power and abundance and Love of the Universe.

Fifth Meditation

I listen to the Voice of the Universe as it speaks within me. It is the Voice of Truth and it guides me unerringly along the paths of my Life. Somewhere deep within me, in the perfect bud of my Soul, there stands an immobile Universe where All Things and All Law lie revealed. I reach within to this place of Peace and Quietness. I harken to the voice of my Heart. I close my eyes and sense a Living, breathing Universe dwelling within me, and I dwelling in it. I Am ONE with All people and All Life and All Things. I move in accordance with Divine Law. All the Limitless Power of Creation is mine to draw upon, for it is in me and One with me and I am a part of it. The answer comes with the question; the path is Lighted with the first step; the way is cleared with the looking; the goal is in sight with the desire. I know that I am fulfilling the fondest wish of God, for I place myself in His hands, taking each step of my Life boldly and strongly, for it is God who prompts me, and God moves with sureness. I see tomorrow for I Know today, and this day is father of tomorrow. The things of my Life are the children of my Thoughts, and my Thoughts of today are even now hearing the children of tomorrow. All that is good I desire; all that is evil I refuse to accept. By attaining, I do not deprive. All that is and ever will be is available to every man; he need only ask and it shall be given; I bind myself to the Power for good that surges heavenward all around me. The limits and inhibitions of my past are gone. Each day is a new birth of my Soul. Each day is another step on my journey to a ONENESS with God. I do not seek, I Know. I do not strive, I am Guided.

Sixth Meditation

Here in solitude, in this time of Peace, of meditation, I withdraw deep into the silent recesses of my being to a place of utter calm, Slowly the world retreats from around me, until finally I am alone. Walled away from all clamor and strife there is nothing but me. I am not body; I am not Thought; I am not experience; I am not the past nor the present nor the future. I simply AM. Across my Consciousness comes a constant procession of Thoughts and I observe them. I do not make up these Thoughts. I Know they come from the Universal Subconscious Mind, and I watch as they are presented to me. I slow the train of Thoughts. I examine each of them, then let go, neither accepting nor rejecting. On and on the Thoughts come, and I ask myself, “Who is it that observes this?” And I hear the answer, “Thou that art, always have been, and always will be - thou observes!” and I Understand. Divorced from body, Thought, and experience, I still exist as I always must. Here then is my True Self, a thing independent of all but Spirit, a contemplative “I,” which only observes and chooses from the Thoughts that cross Consciousness. Whatever I choose is mine. Whatever I reject shall never touch me. I need only observe and accept, and All Things will be added unto me by a Power which leaps to acknowledge my Faith and my decision. I sense such warmth and security as might overflow the world. I sense a fusion of my being with the great Universal Subconscious Mind, the Mind of God. I sense the Presence of the Father who Knoweth no wrath, who does All Things at his child’s bidding. I sense my union with this Father by Immutable and irrevocable bonds. I am one with All Truth, All Beauty, All Justice, All Love.

Seventh Meditation

I do not confuse what I seem to be with what I really am. I am never what I seem to be, and always what I REALLY AM - host to the Indwelling God. I quiet the movements of my body, slow my breathing, and glide deep into the recesses of my being, to the very Center of my Consciousness. Here in this place of Infinite calm, I become ONE with the immortal Self of the world, and I observe my Thoughts across my Consciousness in a never-ending stream. I do not create these Thoughts. They come from the Infinite reaches of the Universal Subconscious Mind and are directed to my Consciousness, for I have attracted them. I may choose any Thoughts I desire. I have but to decide, and the ideas and images I have chosen are directed to me. As I accept them so will they manifest in my world. I alone decide what I will THINK; thus, I decide my entire Life. I bar the door of my Mind to negative Thoughts or Thoughts of evil. The door is always open to admit the positive, the good, the beautiful and the aspiring. I have complete Confidence in the Wisdom and the Power of the Universal Subconscious Mind. I do not predict the manner in which each of my Thoughts will manifest; I have complete Faith that God moves in the most perfect manner. There is no such thing as lack unless it is accepted; the Universe has Infinite supply. Vigor and Health, abundance and success are mine, for I choose only such Thoughts. Love abounds in a Universe where I AM ONE with the Immortal Self, the Universal Subconscious Mind, God. My every decision is answered from a Perfect and Inexhaustible Source of Power.

Eighth Meditation

The Truth about Life is the Infinite Love of God for ALL THINGS. Each man is my brother, bound to me by Immortal and Everlasting ties. I Love All people; they dwell in my Father and my Father in them. I surrender my Heart to humanity, and humanity serves me with Love. I surrender my Heart to God, and the Love of God becomes complete in me. I AM ONE with All the Power and Vigor and Knowledge of the Universe. I let go of fear and confusion; they are illusions and cannot live with Truth, which is Love, which is complete and fulfilled in me now. The great Reality of Universal Subconscious Mind is forever present at the Center of my being. I draw from IT Perfect Intelligence, Perfect Health, Perfect Peace, Perfect Happiness, Perfect Love. I surrender all the built-up inhibitions that have been impressed upon me by the illusions of the world. I refuse to accept anything but Truth, which is always the good and the positive. I move in accord with Divine Intelligence. I accept the Will and the Love of God, which I express in laughter and joy and pleasure and service. Only the good, the great, the significant, and the constructive do I add unto myself. Nothing else is allowed into the creative depths of my being. The surging desire of each man is to Know the fulfillment of Love. The way to this fulfillment is through contact with the Center of Consciousness, through Communion with the Silent Dweller within. I surrender my doubts and confusions and fears. Universal Love is complete in me. I am United with God, move with God. I am serene and sure, joyful and achieving, confident of Ultimate splendor.

Ninth Meditation

The Infinite Creative Power of Universal Subconscious Mind lies within me. I attune myself, remove all barriers from my Thought, become receptive to the purposes of God. I know that my Life is great and good when I perform service with Love. The right ideas are delivered to me, I accept them, and Subconscious Mind provides me with the means of bringing them into my world. I know that All Things spring from Universal Mind, which is Infinitely Abundant. Lack and limitation are errors of Thinking, and I banish them from my Consciousness. There can be no lack. I need only let Universal Mind express itself through me, and my world is filled with creativeness and achievement and prosperity; my goals will be delivered to me, for they will be the goals of God, who never fails. Whatever my task I perform it with Love, for I Know that when I serve another, I serve the purposes of a greater design. All about me I see the Law of Mutual Exchange; therefore, I give as I would receive. I know that abundance and prosperity are mental conditions; I create them on the plane of Mind with complete trust and confidence that they will manifest in my Life. I refuse to accept undesirable circumstance as having final Reality. First Cause is Mental and is never found in the world about me. A Mighty Truth is at the Center of my Consciousness, where no work is difficult, where peace always reigns, where ALL THINGS are possible. I Know that Life is a journey which must be traveled step by step, and I am patient, enjoying the wonder of the way with unshakable Faith in my destination. I submit my Will, Knowing that success will come when I fulfill the indwelling Self.

Tenth Meditation

My body is a manifestation of my Knowledge of myself, and my True Self is Spirit, is Consciousness only, and is invisible. Other people see me not; they see but my body. It is only I who Know myself, and this Knowledge returns to me in my Health and in the things of my Life. Therefore, I affirm that my Spirit is Perfect, that I AM ONE with the great Self of the Universe. The Energy of this great Self permeates my being, cleanses me of all impurities of the flesh, restores every function of my body to Harmony. There is perfect elimination, perfect assimilation. My entire being is Spiritual, and my body is quickened into new Life with the perception of this Great Truth. I surrender myself to the Wisdom and Guidance of Universal Subconscious Mind. I become ONE with the purpose of God, and this mighty purpose animates my body, projects into every aspect of my Life. There is no obstruction, no barrier, no limitation in my Mind. I see only Peace, Power, Vigor, and Plenty. I open my Heart to Love, and Love flows through every atom and pore of my body, energizing, molding, coordinating. By Healing my Mind of limitation and lack and negative Thinking, I automatically heal my body. At the Center of my Being, I perceive Limitless, Deathless, Ageless Spirit, Perfect in Beauty, Perfect in Function; this Spirit becomes manifest in my body and in my affairs. When I am faced with apparent confusion, I surrender it, give over each of my problems and worries to that which has the perfect solution and in which there is absolute clarity. I take my Thoughts from the Limitless reaches of Universal Subconscious Mind, never from the world around me. I do not Think responsively, I Think originally; I Do Not react, I Act. I am never a victim of circumstances, for each thing of my Life proceeds from out of my Thoughts, which move always in accord with God.

Eleventh Meditation

I Know that I AM Pure Spirit, Deathless, Birthless, Changeless, and Eternal. I am not body; I am not Conscious Mind; I am not ego. I am sense of Self only, Consciousness, Awareness, Unadulterated Being. The Presence that animates All Life is within me, is altogether the Real Me. I am using my body for a purpose, as an expression of an idea, and when the idea is fully expressed, through my work and my mission, I shall return again to Unity with Universal Self, leaving body and ego behind. I do not confuse my body and my ego with what I Truly AM. My body is simply an instrument for my expression, and my ego is simply memory of physical experience. Returning to Infinity and Unity, I shall need neither body nor ego. I am free of the domination of the ego. It is not my True Self, is simply an illusion necessary to finiteness and the perception of Space and Time. I turn away from the ego; withdraw into the depths of my Being to the Immortal Consciousness that lies within. Here in this Magic Center my word is Law. I need only speak it with Faith and conviction, and it Will Manifest in my Life. I am calm and serene, sure and unfaltering, for my roots are in Eternity. All the things of Life shall change and pass away, but I shall never pass away. For wherever Life is I shall be, ONE with Universal Subconscious Mind. I need not strive or strain to attain Immortality, nor fear punishment, nor aspire for reward. The Kingdom of Heaven awaits all, the Wise, the foolish, the sinner, and the Saint, for WE ARE ALL ONE IN REALITY, clothed in different forms in this moment of incarnation. I do not fear death, for by it I attain the Consciousness of Higher Self. Neither do I invite death, for it must wait until my work is done. I forsake the ego, perceive self in Self, see the majesty, the grandeur, the Immortality of the Power that dwells within.

Twelfth Meditation

I turn away from the world about me to the world of Consciousness that lies within. I shut out all memories of the past, create no images of the future. I concentrate on my Being, on my Awareness. I slide deep into the very recesses of my Soul to a place of utter repose. Here I perceive fact in the making, am Conscious of the ONE BEING from which all beings spring. I know that this is Immortal Self, this is God, this is me. I AM, I always was, I always will be. All men, ALL THINGS, all Space and Time and Life are here in the depths of my Soul. Smaller than small, greater than great meet and Unite in me. That which I Thought I was, ego, I never was at all, for it was a changing thing, mirroring the seasons and the tides, a thing to be born and grow and die. I am not a thing of time or circumstance. I am Spirit, Pure and Eternal, Birth-less, Deathless and Changeless. I am patient, for I AM ALL TIME: I AM WISE, for I contain the Knowledge of ALL THINGS, I know not pain, for I see there is no beginning and no end, and who suffers pain must see beginning and end, I am rich, for there is no limit to the abundance I may create from my very Self. I am successful, for I need only THINK to achieve. I Love and am beloved, for ALL THINGS are myself and I AM ALL THINGS. I Unite, I fuse, I become ONE with Universal Subconscious Mind. The mask of vanity and ego I shall never wear again. I perceive the magnificent Dweller at the Center of my Consciousness, and I Know Him to be my very self. Time and Space, shadow and substance, what matter these? I AM GOD.

Summary of Meditative Principles

"Three Magic Words," by Uell S. Anderson

These PRINCIPLES emphasize the Power of Thought, Faith, and Unity with the Universal Mind to manifest health, success, and Spiritual Realization.

Self-Realization recognizes the individual as Pure Spirit, Eternally connected to the Universal Mind, which responds to belief and Thought. All problems and needs are addressed through Trust in Divine Intelligence, requiring only Faith, not effort. Body and life are manifestations of Spirit, Inherently perfect, and health results from aligning with this Truth. Obstacles are illusions; the True Self is beyond body, ego, and time, Eternal and Unchanging Power of Thought and Knowingness. The Universal Mind creates experiences based on beliefs; evil and limitation are illusions stemming from erroneous Thoughts. Denying evil and focusing on good aligns one with Divine Creation, attracting abundance and Love. Thoughts are Powerful; holding steadfast on positive, constructive ideas influences Reality without effort. Faith and confidence in Divine Guidance are essential for manifestation and success. Unity and ONENESS with All Things. All form and circumstance originate from an Infinite Intelligence within and around us.

Helping others benefits oneself, and All Life seeks Harmony. Compassion, tolerance, and understanding are vital, as every person reflects aspects of the Self. Success and Peace are achieved through cooperation, Love, and Trust in the Divine Purpose, Inner Peace and Self-Observation. True Self is the silent observer, detached from body, Thoughts, and ego. Meditation involves observing Thoughts without attachment, recognizing the Eternal Self beyond transient experiences. The Inner Center is calm, where Truth and Divine Guidance are accessible. Self-Awareness leads to Mastery over Thoughts and the ability to manifest desired realities.

The voice of the Universe resides within, guiding unerringly when one listens Inwardly. Trusting Divine Timing and Law, rather than forcing outcomes, aligns actions with Higher Wisdom. Each day and circumstance are part of a perfect plan, and success flows from Surrender and Faith. The process involves moving from doubt to Trust, Recognizing that All Things are possible through Divine Power.

The body reflects the state of Consciousness; healing occurs through Mental alignment with Spirit. Recognize the body as an instrument, with health and vigor resulting from Spiritual Harmony. Surrendering worries and negative Thoughts restores vitality and balance. The True Self is deathless and eternal; physical form is temporary and secondary.

The True Self is beyond body, ego, and time - immortal, birth-less, and deathless. It Recognizes the Unity with the Infinite, where All Life is interconnected and Divine. Death is a transition to Higher Consciousness, not an end, and fear of death is unnecessary. The Self is the Eternal Presence that always exists, unaffected by physical changes. Inner Consciousness and Self-Identity focuses inward, shutting out external distractions to perceive the Divine within. The inner world of Consciousness is the Source of All Creation and fulfillment. The True Self Recognizes that ego and transient Thoughts are illusions; the True Self is pure Awareness. By affirming Divine identity, one aligns with Infinite Abundance and Peace.

The Universe is a reflection of Inner Thoughts; Mastery over Thought leads to Mastery over Life. Love, Service, and Faith are the Keys to aligning with Divine Power. Success, health, and happiness are natural states when aligned with Divine Law and Truth. The ultimate goal is Unity with the Divine Self, transcending limitations and Recognizing Eternal Life.

Electrons and the Light of God

Electrons

• There is nothing inside of an Electron except the Electron itself.

• An Electron can never be created or destroyed on its own. When an Electron is isolated, it can never be destroyed. The best measurement of the lifetime of an Electron suggests that a particle present today will probably still be around in 66,000 yottayears (6.6 × 10^28 yr), which is about five-quintillion times the current age of the universe.

• Electrons are negatively charged particles.

• The mass of the Electron is 1/2000 times lesser than the mass of proton and neutron.

• An Electron has an electric charge of -1.602 × 10^-19 coulombs, which is equal and opposite to the charge of a proton.

• Electrons are subatomic particles found outside the nucleus, continuously moving around the nucleus in orbits or shells.

• The invariant (rest) mass of an Electron is approximately 9.109 × 10^−31 kilograms. An Electron is considered nearly massless in comparison with a proton or a neutron, and the Electron mass is not included in calculating the mass number of an atom. However, as mass can be thought of as stored energy, it has a definitive and constant mass when at rest.

• Electrons display both particle properties and wave properties.

• According to the principle of quantum mechanics, the position and momentum of Electrons cannot be determined simultaneously.

• Because an Electron is a quantum object with wave-like properties, it must always be vibrating at some frequency.

• The Electron travels at about 2,200 kilometers per second, which is less than 1% of the speed of light, but fast enough to travel around the Earth in just over 18 seconds.

• There are three primary types of bonding involving Electrons: ionic, covalent, and metallic.

• The number of Electrons which combine with each other in a specific atom is the result of and determined by Conscious Thought. The rate at which they whirl around the central core is the result of and determined by Feeling.

• The formation of the atom is due to the action of numerous negatively charged Electrons orbiting a central nucleus composed of positively charged protons and neutral neutrons, generating the atomic structure.

• The microscopic cell has the promise and germ of Mind because the elements that make it up are built from the Electron, meaning MIND is potential in the unit of matter—the ELECTRON itself.

• The movements of Electrons are in response to an inward 'Feeling' and 'Will' action, proving that Matter is but the Outer Garment of Soul (Life-Mind).

The Light of God

"Light, that creative agent, the vibrations of which are the movement and life of all things; light, latent in the Universal ether, radiating about absorbing centers, which, being saturated thereby, project movement and Life in their turn, so forming Creative currents; Light, astralized in the stars, animalized in animals, humanized in human beings; Light, which vegetates all plants, glistens in metals, produces All Forms of Nature and equilibrates All by the Laws of Universal sympathy--this is the Light which exhibits the phenomena of magnetism, divined by Paracelsus, which tinctures the blood, being released from the air as it is inhaled and discharged by the Hermetic bellows of the lungs." (The History of Magic.) - Eliphas Levi

The Light of God is the most powerful phenomenal Eternal Force in All of Infinity. This Pure Electronic Light is the Great Limitless Storehouse of the Universe. It is the Universal Substance from which All Matter is composed. It is manifested as gravity, magnetism, heat, radiation, electricity, substance, motion, gases, fluids and perpetual vibration—all at the same time. It dissolves, consolidates, quickens, and moderates the construction of All Things Created. It is Energy and Mass, and it contains the Consciousness of God. This Light is the True Essence of All Things, the Spark of Life and the Totality of every plant, animal, human, water, earth, air and fire. Manifested in the body of man, it is the very Thought-Force, nerve-currents, blood-flow, and the Divine breath that animates the body and brain. God creates this Light Eternally and It exists Infinitely.

The Electron itself is Pure Spirit or "Light" of God. It remains forever uncontaminated and perfect. It is Eternally Self-Sustained, Indestructible, Self-Luminous and Intelligent. If it were not, it could not and would not obey "The Law," the directing activity of Love. It is Immortal, Ever-Pure, Intelligent Light-Energy, and the only Real True Substance out of which Everything in the Universe is made. Interstellar space is filled with this Great Sea of Universal Light, which is constantly being drawn into form according to the way the little Electrons are held around a central core by Love.

Thus, the Atom is a Living, Breathing Entity Created by the Breath and Love of God through the Will of Self-Conscious Intelligence. The machinery that Self-Conscious Intelligence uses to accomplish this manifestation is Thought and Feeling. Constructive Thought and Harmonious Feeling within a human Mind and body permit the Perfect Ratio and Speed of the Electrons to remain permanent. In this way, the quality of Perfection and the maintenance of Life in a human body is always under the Conscious Control of the Will of the individual occupying it. To understand this Conscious Control over the atomic structure is to understand the One Principle Governing form throughout Infinity. Whoever makes himself Willingly obedient unto the "Law of Love" has Perfection in his Mind and world permanently maintained.

There Dwells Within every Human Being a Divine Spirit. This is the "Light which Lights every man who comes into the world." The mission of this Divine Presence is to direct us into new lives of Love, Service, and Soul satisfaction. Mind is our ship, the Spirit is our guide, and our human Will is captain. The Master of the mortal vessel should have the Wisdom to trust the Divine Guide to lead the Ascending Soul. Doing the Will of our Divine Guide is doing God's Will, and doing God's Will is the assurance of a joyful and triumphant Eternal Life.

Light dissolves all resistance and blocked energy. A scientifically controlled study has shown that someone who meditates on their heart center and sends Love and Light to others emits 100,000 photons of Light per second—5000 times more than the average human being. When these photons are infused with a Loving Intent, their frequency and vibration increases to the point where they can literally change matter, heal disease, and transform negative events.

Light plays a profound role in describing Knowledge, which is often referred to as Illumination. We call students pupils, which corresponds to the part of the eye related to Light. When such people come to understand things, they are said to have seen the Light, gaining Insight. Soul Light vanquishes ignorance, superstition, and fear. As a person becomes Enlightened, he becomes increasingly Aware of the Eternal Good. He Realizes that all the delinquencies of society and the shortcomings of his own nature result from failure to guard the Flame flickering on the altar of his own Soul.

Light is the immediate carrier of Life itself. There is an Invisible Light which nourishes the Spirits of Living Things, an Intellectual Light which sustains Mental Activity, an Emotional Light which makes the Soul Fruitful of Good, and a Physical Light which Illumines the material world. The White Band of Light represents the Awakened Conscious Awareness to Spiritual Enlightenment, the expression of Divinity as a Self-Realized individual vessel of Spirit. As you accept and increase the Divine Light within you, your Higher physical vibrations will place you further within the frequency bands where your Higher Self plays a greater role in the decisions and directions you take with your Life. Walk in the Light! Expand the Light! Project the Light! Be the Light of God in Action on Earth Here and Now!

The Light of God surrounds me and fills me.

The Light is the Love of God that enfolds me.

The Light is the Power of God that protects me.

The Light is the Presence of God that watches over me.

The Light is the Mind of God that guides me.

The Light is the Life of God that flows through me.

The Light is the Law of God that directs me.

The Light is the Power of God that abides within me.

The Light is the Joy of God that uplifts me.

The Light is the Strength of God that renews me.

The Light is the Beauty of God that inspires me.

The Light is the Kingdom of God Within me.

God is not the Light, but the Cause that Light IS

Living in the "Light" is Living in this dimension of the physical world in the Awareness of the "Light" being "God" the Cause that Light IS. This Awareness fills up our Life with Divine Love, Perfect Peace, Heavenly Harmony, Happiness, Kindness, Goodness, Purity, Perfection, and Freedom.

What it Means to be a Mystic

An Exploration of the Inner Journey and the Quest for the Real

Mystic is fundamentally characterized not by idle dreaming, but by an unwavering pursuit of ultimate Truth. Contrary to the misconception that Mysticism is a fog of impractical intellectual or metaphysical speculations, a True Mystic is one who seeks the Real back of the seeming; the Reality back of all outer manifestations. They want to get behind the seen into the unseen, to go back of the outer phenomena of Life and study their causes in order to truly Understand them. Mysticism is, at its core, the pursuit of Conscious Union with God, attained through intuitional experience, guided by trained intellectual processes, and by a Focused Will.

"Everybody in the world knows the word "God," but there are few people in the world who know God. For most people God has remained a word, a term, a power outside the self: God, Itself, has not become a Living Reality except to those few people who are known as Mystics." — Joel S. Goldsmith

The Path of Knowingness

Organized religion is often described as the path of seeking God outside of oneself - reading scripture, going to church, and following dogmatic hierarchies. Mysticism, by contrast, is the direct communion with God, effectively cutting out the "middle man." The Mystic approaches this communion not with mere belief, but with a profound and Silent Knowingness.

"A Mystic doesn't say 'I believe.' They say 'I know.' A True Mystic will ironically speak with that self-confidence but at the same time with a kind of humility. So, when you see that combination of calm self-confidence, certitude, and humility all at the same time you have the basis for Mysticism in general." — Richard Rohr

This certitude stems from a reliance on internal growth and intuition. Mystics feel uncomfortable with Spiritual hierarchies and the tenuous rituals of structured traditions. Instead, a true Mystic follows nobody's path, rather creates one, knows no authority and bows to nobody. They possess an innate Trust in their own morality and are guided by their Direct Experiences of the Divine.

The Chamber of Mental Alchemy

Because the Mystic understands the interconnected nature of the Universe and the power of Consciousness, they treat their own Mind as a sacred laboratory. They Recognize that their Thoughts are not merely fleeting illusions, but Powerful Creative Forces.

"The Mystic knows only too well the value and danger, the goodness and the evil, that lies in the Power of Mentally Creating. We know that if we hold in our Minds a picture and give it the vibrations of living possibility... we Create it in the world of actuality. We must keep the chamber of Mental Alchemy so clear and so wholesome and of such a High standard that no evil Thought, no evil admission, no unholy concept of our earthly Imagination may take form there and grow and be born in the world of actuality." — H. Spencer Lewis

In holding this Power, Mystics remain deeply humble. They believe they are a conduit for Power, not the Source of it. They see their insights into the Universe as a borrowed gift, acknowledging that the Universe is Infinite, mysterious, and far too complex for the human Mind to fully comprehend.

The Mystic and the Madman

The pursuit of such unadulterated Truth often isolates the Mystic from the conventional world. The Love of God is mad in the eyes of the world, for God is nothing and the world always Loves something as an object, icon, or new experience. As the Mystic turns inward, shedding the possessive Force of the Psychic self and exposing the madness of the Thinking disease, they walk a precarious line. To the uninitiated, the Mystic's absolute devotion may appear as madness.

"The True Mystic is he or she who Loves God more than anything else in the world. Such unwavering devotion attracts Forces in existence that will test the resolve of that person and eliminate any false notions of reality... How long the condition of madness lasts is determined by the diminishing resistance to the call of the Spirit and the surrender to the sanity of Pure Unconditional Love." — Lance Kelly

The Ultimate Reality of Love

Ultimately, Mysticism is choosing Love, Truth, and Charity. It is the Realization that Love is the Source of Life, and that Love Powers Everything. The experiences of Love in our daily Lives are merely reflections of a larger, all-encompassing DIVINE LOVE that flows through every being. To be a Mystic is to step away from the noise of the world, to endure the crucible of Spiritual Transformation, and to find, in the profound Silence of one's own being, the Eternal Reality of the Infinite.

The Philosopher's Stone
The Magnum Opus of Spiritual Alchemy

"Visita Interiora Terrae Rectificando Invenies Occultum Lapidem." (Visit the interior of the earth, and by rectifying, you will find the Hidden Stone.) - The Alchemical Formula of V.I.T.R.I.O.L.

For centuries, the legend of the Philosopher's Stone has captivated the imagination of humanity. Exoteric history portrays it as a Mythical, physical substance—a powder, tincture, or heavy red stone—capable of transmuting base metals like lead into pure gold, and yielding the Elixir of Life that grants physical Immortality.

However, for the initiated Student of the Ancient Wisdom, this literal interpretation is recognized as a deliberate veil. The true Alchemists were not rudimentary chemists; they were profound Mystics and Philosophers. The "metals" they sought to transmute were the base, unrefined qualities of the human Soul. The "laboratory" was the human body and Mind. The Creation of the Philosopher's Stone (the Lapis Philosophorum) is the Ultimate Achievement of Human Evolution: the complete, Conscious Unification of the mortal personality with the Immortal Divine Spirit.

The Geometry of the Stone: Squaring the Circle

The classic symbol of the Philosopher's Stone perfectly illustrates the metaphysical mechanics required to achieve it. It is a visual mathematical formula for the integration of the Macrocosm and the Microcosm, traditionally known as "Squaring the Circle."

The Outer Circle: Represents the Infinite, the Unmanifested Absolute, and the Macrocosmic Soul of the Universe (The ALL). It has No Beginning and No End.

The Triangle: Represents the tripartite nature of Existence—Spirit, Soul, and Body; or the alchemical principles of Mercury (Mind), Sulfur (Spirit), and Salt (Matter). It is the descent of the Divine Trinity into manifestation.

The Square: Represents the material Universe, the Four Elements (Earth, Air, Fire, Water), and the rigid, physical foundation of earthly Life.

The Inner Circle: Represents the Awakened Monad—the singular spark of Divine Consciousness that has successfully integrated the elements of material experience and realized its exact resonance with the Infinite Outer Circle.

To create the Stone is to align the geometry of the Soul, balancing the dense limitations of the Square (physical Reality) with the Eternal Perfection of the Circle (Divine Reality).

II. The Exoteric Illusion vs. The Esoteric Reality

The language of Alchemy was deliberately codified to protect its practitioners from the persecution of dogmatic religious authorities, and to keep Profound Spiritual Power out of the hands of the profane.

"Our gold is not the common gold." — Classic Hermetic Maxim

When the Alchemists wrote of Lead (Saturn), they were describing the dense, heavy, restrictive state of the Unawakened human ego—bound by time, ignorance, and material desire. When they wrote of Gold (Sol), they were describing the Incorruptible, Radiant, and Immortal State of the Awakened "I AM" Consciousness. The process of turning Lead into Gold is the Psychological and Spiritual discipline of transmuting fear into Love, ignorance into Wisdom, and mortal identification into Divine Realization.

Likewise, the Elixir of Life does not grant Infinite Longevity to the physical body, which is subject to the Immutable Law of Cycles. Instead, it grants True Immortality: the Unbroken Continuity of Consciousness. The one who possesses the Stone identifies Entirely with the Eternal Spirit, experiencing the death of the physical body not as an end, but as a simple shedding of a garment.

III. The Stages of the Great Work (The Magnum Opus)

The Creation of the Philosopher's Stone is not achieved through sudden, unearned revelation. It is a highly structured, rigorous process of Inner Transmutation known as the Great Work, traditionally divided into Four primary stages:

Nigredo (The Blackening): The stage of putrefaction and decay. Psychologically, this is the "Dark Night of the Soul." It requires the deliberate breaking down of the false ego, the confrontation of one's shadow, and the painful burning away of worldly illusions and attachments.

Albedo (The Whitening): The stage of Purification and washing. Having survived the dark fires of the Nigredo, the Consciousness is cleansed. It is a period of Deep Introspection, Clarity, and the Awakening of the Intuitive, Reflective Lunar Consciousness. The Soul becomes a Pristine Mirror for the Divine Light.

Citrinitas (The Yellowing): The stage of the dawning Solar Light. The Pure, Reflective Consciousness is suddenly Illuminated by the Direct Knowledge of the Higher Self. It is the Awakening of True Spiritual Intellect and Divine Revelation.

Rubedo (The Reddening): The Final Stage of Culmination and Unification. The Purified Soul and the Awakened Spirit Merge Entirely into a Singular, Incorruptible Entity. The Spiritual is made physical, and the physical is made Spiritual. The Philosopher's Stone is Fully Forged.

IV. The Ultimate Realization

"He who has found the Stone, possesses a treasure greater than all the riches of the world, for he has found himself, and in finding himself, he has found the Universe."

The Philosopher's Stone is not something the Seeker eventually acquires; it is something the Seeker Ultimately Becomes. It is the physical manifestation of the perfected human—one who operates Entirely under the Conscious Direction of the Indwelling Spirit, Radiating the Harmonizing, Transmuting Power of Divine Love into the dense Reality of the physical plane.

"By the Power of Truth, I, while Living, have Conquered the Universe" (Vi Veri Vniversum Vivus Vici)

The Mechanics of Meditation and Silence

In the study of esoteric science, meditation and silence are not merely passive states of rest, but active, potent mechanisms for Spiritual Transformation. The true "Silence" is defined as the quiet Realization of Spirit with such intensity of feeling that we are merged in the Great All and are ONE with the Infinite Mind. Silence is, in fact, another name for God, while quietness is a name for Consciousness and Peace. Everything of profound value is found in the Silence rather than in an abundance of words, for it is in this stillness that pure Awareness reveals itself. As the ancient teachings suggest, one should never be afraid to sit in the Silence, for it is the seeker's greatest asset.

The practice of meditation requires concentrated, definite, hard Thinking along a particular line. Mechanically, meditation means that one will, for a time, withdraw from the world. The practitioner must build a Mental wall around themselves, an impenetrable barrier through which the Thoughts, Hopes, and Fears of the outer world cannot pierce. By shutting out the external noise, one goes within to the Holy of Holies, sitting in the silence to await the coming of the Higher man into his Kingdom. In this void, one systematically puts aside the changing physical senses, the wandering Thoughts, and the fleeting Emotions, recognizing them as the unreal self. Through this process of elimination, the Higher Consciousness—the Deathless, Unchanging, Eternal Will and Wisdom—arises from the emptiness.

To "Keep Silent" is a fundamental rule of Life and Magic. It refers directly to that silent hush of the physical and Mental activities that must come before the Higher centers can catch and transmit the vibrations from the Higher planes. When a person learns to sit in the quietness for as long as possible, especially in the solitude of their home, they prepare themselves to receive Divine messages. As Mother Teresa expressed, "Silence of the heart is necessary so you can hear God everywhere." Furthermore, a prayer addressed to the "Father" within the silence and solitude of one's own heart—when uttered by one who knows how to make himself heard in silence—is no longer a mere petition, but becomes a powerful command.

The mechanics of this process are ultimately governed by the Eternal Law of Life, which dictates that whatever you Think and Feel, you bring into form. Where your Thought is, there you are, for you are your Consciousness; and whatever you meditate upon, you become. Therefore, by meditating constantly on Love and Compassion over months and years, these qualities are knit inseparably into the very fabric of the Mind. By focusing on the changeless Spirit within the silence, the individual attains the Supreme Silence. This is the Bliss of Consciousness-Absolute, the splendid Plenitude of the Real, where the individual is drowned in the ocean of Being and United with the Infinite.

True Religion vs Organized Religion

True Religion

True Religion is the Recognition, Realization, and Manifestation of the Indwelling Spirit immanent within our being. As a person Realizes this internal Divine Presence, they rise in the Spiritual scale of Life. True Religion is not dependent upon any system of sectarianism or the necessity of churches; as Leo Tolstoy noted, church religion is slavery, whereas True Religion understands that every iota of your being, your Life Force, and your Consciousness is God within your physical human body. God has no name and is not a person, but rather the underlying Force and Consciousness of All Existence. The first step of True Spirituality is to feel God within, making meditation meaningful, and the second step is to Realize that God is not separate from Creation, but is the very Force of creation itself.

True Religion is Patient, Benevolent, Humble, and Sweet-Tempered; it envies no earthly dignities and is neither quarrelsome nor intriguing. It embodies all the characteristics of Charity. It is not a matter of ceremony, but of daily, hourly living, rooted in ordinary common sense, discipline, self-control, and profound gratitude to The ALL. The true Magi, or Spiritually Realized individuals, are those in Intimate Union with the Divine Principle. They lean upon religion without letting it weigh on them, leaving all to happen as it may while reposing in the quietude of Eternal Thought. True Worship is simply the Desire to be like that which is Worshipped, recognizing that while There Are Truths in all Religions, No Single Religion Contains All Truths.

At the esoteric core of True Religion lies the profound Mystery of the Dying-God Myth, an allegory that holds the key to both Universal and Individual Redemption. Whether represented by Jesus, Osiris, Mithras, or Prometheus, the Dying-god is the human Spirit suspended from heaven by a single thread, meditating upon the Unreality of the World of Illusion. The Crucifixion symbolizes the perpetual sacrifice of the animal organism and the Death of the Personal Self-Will. It teaches that the candidate for Immortality must divest themselves of terrestrial desires, Sacrificing the Personal Consciousness that dwells in the sense of separateness so that the Universal Consciousness may be Liberated. Wisdom, rather than death, is the True Reward for this Voluntary Sacrifice.

Jesus never enunciated a creed, formulated a dogma, or established a church. His only doctrine was Divine Love, and his gospel was the Realization of the Cosmic Christ-Consciousness—the identity of all men in the Father, leading to the Universal Brotherhood of man. True Religion recognizes that the wide, broad gate of organized religion leads to destruction, while the strait, narrow way of Inner Knowingness leads unto Life. It is the lofty philosophy that instructs the Soul concerning the Universe and its Laws, ensuring that once the Soul lifts itself to the perception of the real Good and Truth, it cannot fall back into the darkness of separation.

Organized Religion

Organized religion is fundamentally the attempt of men to anthropomorphize the Nameless Infinite ALL. It seeks to ascribe human personality, qualities, and characteristics to the Divine, creating theories regarding its will, desires, and plans. In doing so, organized religion establishes itself as the "middle-man" between THE ALL and the people, promoting the path of seeking God outside of oneself through the reading of scripture, attending church, and following rigid dogmas. This sectarian approach is a form of down-right materialist idealism because, by affirming that external texts are strictly necessary for man's knowledge of God, it actively denies humanity the possession of its own Spiritual receptive faculties. When individuals blindly adopt these religious or dogmatic systems, they become automatons and cease to grow. Organized religion is a matter of belief, and because belief places a limitation on the Mind, the Mind within such a system is Never Truly Free.

This rigid framework often leads to Religious Exclusivity, the doctrine that only one particular belief system is true, causing followers to cling blindly to one idea as if it were the absolute whole. This strict adherence to a rigid set of beliefs challenges cognitive flexibility and open-mindedness. It is within this rigidity that the Dunning-Kruger effect—a cognitive bias between perception and performance—takes root. This effect causes people to become overly confident in their religious beliefs, often to the point of fanaticism. They view their particular doctrines as superior to all others, leaving no flexibility to consider alternative views, making real conversation impossible. This is frequently seen in new converts who, upon finding something that feels right after a long search, incorrectly assume it must be the only correct answer for everyone.

By imposing what to Think, what is good or bad, and what is right or wrong, Dogmatic Religion Prevents People From Using Critical Thinking or reaching their own conclusions, ultimately resulting in emotional suppression and suffering. Furthermore, organized religion breeds separation. When individuals separate themselves by identifying strictly as Christian, Muslim, or any other label, it breeds violence and division among mankind. Throughout history, this desire for control has led to tyranny and oppression; early religious authorities burned whole libraries and destroyed universities on the pretext of defending their teachings, proving that when a church dictates what its subjects may not read or know, the result is darkness regardless of holy motives. Ultimately, organized religion creates a God that is merely an enlargement of the worshippers' own reflections, shifting the Spiritual journey from a path of transformation into a mere religion of belonging and believing.

MAN — GOD

MAN is not Complete until he has a total REALIZATION that GOD IS the TOTALITY of his BEING.

This perspective suggests that the human experience is often defined by a sense of fragmentation—a feeling of being a limited, separate entity navigating a vast and external Universe. The "completion" mentioned here refers to the transition from a state of dualistic belief to one of direct, experiential Non-Duality.

The Illusion of Separation

In many esoteric and philosophical traditions, the "incomplete" state of man is attributed to the ego. The ego perceives a boundary where the "self" ends and "God" or the "Universe" begins. As long as a person views God as an external force to be petitioned, feared, or reached, there remains a fundamental gap. Completion is the closing of this gap.

Realization vs. Intellectual Belief

There is a vital distinction between Knowing a concept and Realizing it:

Intellectual Belief: Accepting the statement "God is within" as a theological fact. This remains a Thought in the Mind.

Total Realization: An ontological shift where the "I" (the personality/ego) dissolves into the "Am" (the underlying source). It is not a new Thought, but the background against which All Thoughts occur.

God as Totality

"Totality of being" implies that there is no part of a human—the physical body, the breath, the Intellect, or the Subconscious—that is "not-God." It suggests that the same Force that governs the movement of galaxies is the exact same Force that animates your current Thought.

The "Great Work" of Completion

In Hermetic and Alchemical traditions, this Realization is often called the Great Work. It is the process of Purifying the "lead" of the lower nature (instincts, fears, and biological drives) until only the "Gold" of the Divine Essence remains.

The Vessel: The human form is the crucible.

The Transformation: Man ceases to be an "individual" (divided) and becomes "Individuated" (Undivided) from the Source.

State of Incompletion (Duality) - God is a creator "out there." - Life happens to me. - Seeking for a Source of Power. - Identity is tied to name, form, and history.

State of Realization (Totality) - God is the very "I" of the Self. - Life happens as me. - Recognizing Oneself as the Expression of that Power. - Identity is tied to the Eternal Presence.

In this view, the "Total Realization" is the moment the wave Recognizes it is not merely on the ocean, but is the ocean itself in the form of a wave. Once this is Realized, the search for meaning or "Wholeness" ends because the Seeker and the Sought are found to be Identical.

I AM really on the Path

If I always look for the best in each person, situation, and thing.

If I resolutely turn my back on the past, good or bad, and Live only in the present and future.

If I forgive everybody without exception, no matter what they may have done; and if I then forgive MYSELF whole-heartedly.

If I regard my job as sacred and do my day's work to the very best of my ability (whether I like it or not).

If I take every means to demonstrate a healthy body and harmonious surroundings for myself.

If I endeavor to make my Life of as much service to others as possible, without interfering or fussing.

If I take every opportunity wisely to spread the Knowledge of Truth to others.

If I rigidly refrain from personal criticism, and neither speak nor listen to gossip.

If I devote at least a quarter of an hour a day to prayer and meditation.

If I specifically claim Spiritual Understanding for myself every day.

If I train myself to give the First Thought on waking to God.

If I PRACTICE and Obey the Golden Rule: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

The important point about the Golden Rule is that I am to practice it whether the other person does so or not.

Dante Alighieri's Inferno

"For centuries, Dante Alighieri's Divine Comedy has been read as a Masterpiece of Classic Literature and Orthodox Theology. But beneath the surface of its poetic verses lies a Profound, Hidden Blueprint. This is not just a story of the afterlife—it is a rigorous, geometric map of the Soul's Initiation. Explore the Esoteric Architecture of Dante's Universe, where Sacred Numerology, Hermetic Philosophy, and the Ultimate Quest for Divine Wisdom converge."

Dante is a fascinating figure because he stands precisely at the crossroads of Orthodox Theology and Esoteric Philosophy. Within Esoteric and Philosophical traditions, he is best understood as an Initiatic Sage and a Philosophical Mystic.

How He Aligns With Specific Archetypes

The Sage (The Initiate)
To scholars of the Esoteric, the Divine Comedy isn't just a poem—it is a manual of Spiritual Initiation. Dante is widely believed to have belonged to the Fedeli d'Amore (The Faithful of Love), a medieval brotherhood with heavy Hermetic and Templar-adjacent currents. Under the veil of Catholic dogma, his work lays out the Esoteric Architecture of the Soul. Just as the ancient Tabernacle was designed to move from the profane outer courtyard into the Holy of Holies, Dante's journey maps the Conscious Descent into the lower nature (Hell), the Rigorous Purification of the human faculties (Purgatory), and the Final Ascent into Spiritual Illumination (Paradise).

The Mystic
He was a mystic, but of a Highly Intellectual Order. His Ultimate Destination in the poem is a Direct, Unmediated Experience of the Divine Mind and the Universal Logos. However, his Mysticism didn't involve dissolving into a vague trance; it was about Elevating and Perfectly Aligning the Faculties of the human Mind until they could Perceive the Fierce, Absolute, and Uncompromisable Force of Divine Love that "moves the sun and the other stars."

Not a Magus
Dante was not a practitioner of practical Magic, Alchemy, or Theurgy. In fact, he explicitly placed astrologers, diviners, and sorcerers deep in the eighth circle of Hell. To Dante, the Cosmos operated on Divine Law. Attempting to artificially manipulate those forces for personal power was a perversion of the natural order and an arrogant rebellion against the Divine Will.

Not a mere Dreamer
While the poem is famously framed as a vision (opening with him waking up lost in a dark wood), he was not a passive dreamer. The Inferno is far too mathematically rigorous and hyper-rational to be a dream. Every circle, every punishment, and every syllable of the poem is constructed using Sacred Numerology and Precise Geometry. His Universe is built with the rigid perfection of a Cube and aligned with the unforgiving verticality of a Plumbline. It is a work of Supreme Conscious Architecture, not a wandering reverie.

Ultimately, Dante was a Philosopher-Poet who used dense Allegory and Geometric Symbolism to map the Exact Process of Internal Transmutation—turning the lead of human ignorance into the Gold of Divine Realization.

The Hermetic Architecture of Paradiso

Dante's entire Cosmological framework is deeply rooted in principles that mirror Hermetic and Theosophical teachings, particularly the relationship between the Macrocosm and the Microcosm. His journey is not just a theological tour; it is a map of Internal Transmutation.

When Dante finally reaches Paradiso, the architecture shifts dramatically. He undertakes a classic Hermetic Ascent through the Ptolemaic Spheres: In Hermetic Thought, the human Soul descends through these exact planetary spheres at birth, taking on the "garments" or specific Psychological Faculties and limitations of each planetary influence. Dante's Ascent is the deliberate reversal of this process. As he moves from the Moon up to Saturn, he is systematically shedding these earthly faculties and attachments, Purifying the Mind to prepare it for direct contact with the Divine Mind.

Sacred Numerology and Geometry

The Divine Comedy is a Masterwork of Esoteric Geometry. The states of the Soul are mapped to Specific Geometric Realities:

From the Cube to the Sphere

The architecture of Hell is dense, restrictive, and heavy—representing the rigid, material constraints of the Cube. It is a place of Absolute Spiritual Gravity. As Dante Ascends through Purgatory and into Paradise, the geometry softens into Circles and Ultimately expands into Perfect, Boundless Spheres. The Soul is freed from the heavy angles of matter.

The Law of Three and Nine

The entire poem is written in terza rima (interlocking Three-Line stanzas), and the Cosmos is structured in multiples of Three (9 circles of Hell, 9 terraces of Purgatory, 9 spheres of Heaven). Much like the principles underlying the Enneagram, this relentless triadic structure tracks the Soul's Evolution out of fractured multiplicity and back into Profound, Dynamic Unity.

For the Fedeli d'Amore, reading the poem was meant to be an initiatory experience in itself. The geometry and symbols were designed to act as a Plumbline for the reader's Own Soul, Aligning their Internal Faculties with the Uncompromisable Verticality of Divine Truth.

Dante Alighieri's Inferno is built on a highly structured, geometric framework. He envisions Hell as a massive, inverted cone reaching down to the very center of the Earth. The entire architecture is grounded in Sacred Numerology (revolving heavily around the number 3 and its multiple, 9) and the Philosophical concept of contrapasso—a Law of Poetic Justice where the physical punishment perfectly mirrors or inverts the Psychological nature of the sin.

The Philosophy of the Descent

As you descend deeper into the cavern, the space gets physically tighter, and the sins become morally darker. Dante categorizes human failings into three main types of wrongdoing, largely influenced by Aristotelian ethics:

Incontinence (Lack of Control)
The upper circles (2-5). These are sins of passion and appetite. The intellect wasn't used for evil; it was simply overpowered by primal urges.

Violence
The middle section (Circle 7). Brutality directed outward, inward, or upward.

Fraud and Treachery
The lowest depths (Circles 8-9). This is considered the ultimate corruption because it requires the deliberate misuse of human Intellect—the Divine Faculties of the Mind—to Deceive and Betray.

Dante's Nine Circles

Before entering the circles proper, Souls pass through the Vestibule, reserved for the Neutrals —those who Lived their Lives without taking a stand for good or evil. Because they chased no cause in Life, they are forced to endlessly chase a blank banner while being stung by wasps. Beyond the river Acheron, the Nine Circles begin:

Limbo
The home of virtuous non-Christians (like ancient Greek philosophers). There is no physical torment here, only the Sorrow of Eternal Separation from the Divine.

Lust
Souls who were swept away by their passions in life are now swept around helplessly in an endless, violent storm.

Gluttony
Those who made no higher use of their faculties than to eat and drink are forced to lie in cold, filthy slush, reduced to the state of the animals they emulated.

Greed
Hoarders and spendthrifts are forced to endlessly push heavy boulders against one another in a pointless, eternal clash, reflecting their obsession with material weight.

Wrath
The angry fight fiercely on the surface of the swampy River Styx, while the sullen (who held their anger inside) gurgle miserably beneath the mud.

Heresy
Those who claimed the Soul dies with the body are trapped forever in flaming stone tombs.

Violence
Split into three rings depending on the victim:
Against others: Submerged in a river of boiling blood.
Against self: Transformed into twisted trees that are fed upon by Harpies.
Against God/Nature: Forced to wander or sit on a desert of burning sand under a rain of fire.

Fraud (Malebolge)
A massive amphitheater of stone divided into ten deep ditches punishing deliberate deceit. The punishments here are highly specific—for example, hypocrites wear beautiful cloaks made of crushing lead, while flatterers are sunk in human excrement.

Treachery (Cocytus)
The very bottom of Hell is completely devoid of warmth or light. It is a freezing lake of ice where traitors to special bonds (family, country, guests, lords) are encased. At the dead center is a massive, three-faced Satan, eternally chewing on history's three greatest traitors (Judas, Brutus, and Cassius).

About His Esoteric Brotherhood

The Fedeli d'Amore (Faithful of Love) operated under a strict veil of secrecy during the 13th and 14th centuries, a time when orthodox authorities were fiercely purging anything that resembled heresy. On the surface, this brotherhood appeared to be simply a network of poets writing courtly romantic verses about idealized, unattainable women.

However, to the initiated, this poetry was a highly sophisticated cipher used to transmit Esoteric Philosophy safely:

Amor (Love) was never about earthly romance. It was a code for the Active, Transformative Power of the Holy Spirit, or the Universal Logos—the Divine Intellect that structures the Cosmos.

The "Woman" (such as Dante's Beatrice or Petrarch's Laura) was a personification of Sophia—Divine Wisdom. She is the Illuminating Intelligence that greets the initiate and guides them out of the dense ignorance of the material world.

Beatrice is far more than a muse or a memory of a historical Florentine woman. She is a Direct Personification of Sophia, the ancient Hellenistic and Gnostic concept of Divine Wisdom. She represents the Highest, Most Refined State of the Fundamental Faculties of the human Mind —the point where human Intellect becomes capable of Receiving Direct, Unmediated Spiritual Illumination. Her role in the Divine Comedy operates as a precise mechanism for Internal Transformation, Illustrating the limitations of pure logic and the necessity of Spiritual Intuition.

The Handoff of the Faculties: Virgil to Beatrice

The architecture of Dante's journey relies on three distinct guides, each symbolizing a Specific Faculty of Consciousness. The transition between them is not merely a plot device; it is a profound commentary on the Limits of Different Mental States:

Virgil (Human Reason)

Virgil guides Dante through Hell and Purgatory. He represents the peak of unilluminated human logic, moral philosophy, and rational intellect. Reason is absolutely necessary to navigate the dark, heavy geometry of the lower nature—it can categorize sin, understand consequences, and discipline the lower appetites. However, Reason is Ultimately Bound by Time, Space, and the Material World. It can bring a person to the threshold of the Divine, but it cannot enter.

Beatrice (Divine Wisdom/Sophia)

When Dante reaches the top of Mount Purgatory (the Earthly Paradise), Virgil suddenly vanishes. He has taken Dante as far as human logic can go. Beatrice takes over. She represents Theosophia—Divine Knowledge. She is the Intuitive, Illuminated Faculty of the Mind that grasps Universal Truths Directly, without the need for step-by-step rational deduction.

St. Bernard of Clairvaux (Mystical Contemplation)

At the very Highest Sphere of the Empyrean, even Beatrice must step aside. The final vision of the Divine Mind is beyond even Wisdom; it requires Pure, Absolute Mystical Union.

The Descent of the Spark

In Theosophical and Hermetic traditions, there is a recurring motif of Sophia descending from the Higher Realms of Light into the dense, material darkness to rescue the trapped "Sparks" of human Consciousness.

Dante perfectly mirrors this occult framework in the Inferno. Dante is lost in the "dark wood" (a symbol of Spiritual Ignorance and material entanglement), entirely unable to save himself. It is Beatrice who leaves her place in the High Heavens, descends into Limbo, and explicitly commissions Virgil to guide Dante out.

Key insight

The human Intellect (Virgil/Reason) does not spontaneously decide to Seek Spiritual Elevation. The rescue operation is always initiated by Sophia (Divine Wisdom) reaching down to Activate and Direct the rational Mind toward Higher Truth.

The Eyes and the Smile

Throughout Paradiso, Dante's Ascent through the Hermetic planetary spheres is not achieved by physical movement or mechanical effort. He Ascends solely by gazing into Beatrice's eyes. As they rise from Sphere to Sphere, her Beauty Becomes Increasingly Intense and Blinding. This is a Brilliant Allegory for the Expansion of the human Mind's Faculties:

The Eyes of Beatrice

Represent the Profound, Penetrating Demonstrations of Divine Truth. By locking his Focus on Wisdom, his Own Frequency is Raised, naturally Pulling Him Into Higher States of Being.

The Smile of Beatrice

Represents the Intoxicating Joy and Rapture of Spiritual Realization. In the lower spheres, she must withhold her full smile, warning Dante that his unrefined mortal faculties would be shattered by its Intensity—much like Semele being incinerated by the raw glory of Zeus.

In this way, Beatrice is the Ultimate Initiatrix. She acts as a Transformative Lens, stepping down the Blinding, Uncompromisable Force of the Universal Logos into a Frequency that the developing human Soul can Actually Perceive and Integrate.

The Architecture of Correction: Mount Purgatory

If Hell is a downward cone of Spiritual Gravity, Mount Purgatory is its exact geometric inverse: a towering, conical mountain rising out of the southern ocean, stretching up toward the Celestial Spheres.

While Hell punishes the actions of sin, Purgatory corrects the motivations behind them. To meet Beatrice (Divine Wisdom), the human Mind cannot just stop doing bad things; it must Actively Reprogram its Deeply Ingrained Tendencies and Purify its Will. Dante uses the geometric Ascent of the mountain to map this Psychological Restructuring.
The mountain is divided into Three main sections, mirroring the structural precision of Hell, but oriented toward Healing rather than retribution.

Ante-Purgatory (Overcoming Inertia)
At the base of the mountain, wait the excommunicated, the late repentant, and the lethargic. Esoterically, this represents the heavy, inertial drag of the material world. Before the Mind can even begin Active Purification, it must spend time simply Overcoming its Own Spiritual Laziness and the momentum of a misspent Life.

The Seven Terraces (Recalibrating Love)
Once through the Gate of Purgatory, Dante must climb Seven distinct terraces. Each terrace corresponds to one of the Seven Deadly Sins, which Dante reframes entirely around the concept of Love. To Dante, All sin is simply Love (the Fundamental Driving Force of the Soul) that has malfunctioned. The terraces recalibrate this Force geometrically from the bottom up:

Misdirected Love (The Lowest Terraces): Loving things that cause harm to others. This includes Pride (Desiring Superiority), Envy (Resenting Others' Success), and Wrath (Desiring Revenge). The punishments here Force the Soul to practice the opposing virtue—for example, the proud must carry massive stones on their backs, Forcing them to look downward in Humility.

Deficient Love (The Middle Terrace): Sloth. This is Failing to Love the Good with enough energy or urgency. The Slothful are forced to run constantly without rest, activating their sluggish Spiritual Drive.

Excessive Love (The Highest Terraces): Loving good, worldly things too much. This includes Avarice (money), Gluttony (food), and Lust (flesh). These are placed highest because the object of Love Isn't Inherently Evil, just the Attachment to it.

The Earthly Paradise (The Return to Innocence
At the very peak of the mountain lies the Earthly Paradise (the Garden of Eden). This is a critical esoteric concept: Mount Purgatory does not take Dante to Heaven; it only restores him to the state of perfect, uncorrupted human nature that existed before the Fall. By climbing the mountain, Dante has completely shed the dense, gravity-bound attachments of the ego. Only here, in this State of Absolute Mental Clarity and Purified Will, can Virgil (Human Reason) leave him. Human logic has done its job of restructuring the Psyche. Dante is now a Blank, Perfect Vessel, and it is at this exact geometric summit that Beatrice descends in a chariot of Light to begin his initiation into the Divine Mysteries.

The Two Rivers of Eden

When Dante finally reaches the Earthly Paradise at the summit of Mount Purgatory, the Transition from Purification to Actual Ascension involves a highly specific, ritualistic sequence. He doesn't just sprout wings and fly; his very nature has to be Fundamentally Altered to Survive the Physics of the Celestial Realm.

Before Dante can Ascend, he must undergo a final Psychological Clearing. In Dante's Eden, there are two distinct rivers that serve as the Ultimate Baptism of the Mind:

The River Lethe

First, Dante is submerged in Lethe (the River of Forgetfulness). This washes away all memory of his past sins and the guilt associated with them. The Mind cannot enter the Divine Realms while still burdened by the trauma or shame of its former ignorance.

The River Eunoè

This is a river invented by Dante. After Lethe, he drinks from Eunoè (meaning "Good Mind" or "Good Memory"). This Restores and Strengthens the Memory of Every Good Deed he Ever Performed.

Once he emerges from Eunoè, Dante states he is "Pure and Prepared to Climb unto the Stars." His Consciousness is now entirely frictionless.

The Mechanics of the Ascent: Trasumanar

The actual launch into space is instantaneous and operates on Spiritual gravity rather than physical propulsion. Dante describes the exact moment of liftoff: Beatrice turns her face upward and stares directly into the Sun (representing the Divine Light). Dante, unable to look at the Sun directly, stares fixedly into Beatrice's eyes.

Suddenly, Dante realizes they are hurtling through the atmosphere at unimaginable speed—Faster than Lightning. He is entirely confused about how he is flying without a physical mechanism. Beatrice explains two core concepts:

Spiritual Gravity

In Dante's Cosmos, every object has a natural resting place. Heavy things (like rocks and sinful Souls) naturally fall toward the center of the Earth (Hell). Fire naturally rises toward the sky. Because Dante's Soul has been completely purged of all earthly heaviness and sin, its natural state is now weightless. By the Laws of Divine Physics, his Soul must fall upward toward God, just as a rock must fall downward toward the dirt.

Trasumanar (Transhumanizing)

To survive this, Dante undergoes a process he coins Trasumanar—passing beyond the limits of human nature. His physical body is Transmuted, taking on a Celestial Frequency that allows him to pass straight through the solid, crystalline spheres of the planets like a Ray of Light passing through water without displacing it.

From this moment on, the entire journey through Paradiso is driven by this mirroring process: Beatrice gazes into the Higher Truths of God, and Dante gazes at Beatrice, riding her Illuminated Frequency ever upward.

The Metaphysics of Paradiso

Hell and Purgatory are tangible, terrestrial environments—a subterranean crater and a physical mountain bound by gravity, space, and time. Paradiso, however, abandons earthly physics entirely. Its geometry is metaphysical, constructed strictly from Light, Intellect, and Pure Consciousness.

Where the lower realms are defined by their limitations and heavy borders, the Architecture of Heaven is defined by expansion and transparency.

The Principle of Accommodation (The Divine Hologram)

The most fundamental structural difference in Paradiso is the concept of localization. In Hell, a sinner is literally and eternally trapped in a specific physical ditch; they cannot leave. In Paradiso, no one actually lives on the planets.

When Dante meets Souls in the sphere of the Moon or the sphere of Mars, Beatrice explains a Profound Esoteric Truth: these Souls do not reside there. Every single saved Soul in Heaven actually Lives simultaneously in the Highest Realm, the Empyrean, existing outside of time and space in Direct Communion with God.

However, because Dante is still a mortal man with a finite brain, he cannot comprehend the Absolute, Unfragmented Reality of the Empyrean. To accommodate his limited human faculties, the Divine Mind generates a sort of educational hologram. The Souls project their presence down into the lower planetary spheres as Dante passes through, organizing themselves spatially to show him the degree of their Spiritual Capacity. The spheres are not their prisons or homes; they are just a temporary visual aid for Dante's benefit.

The Engine of the Spheres

In the physical Universe, objects are moved by gravity or mechanical force. In Dante's Paradiso, the spheres are moved entirely by Love and Intellect.

According to Dante's medieval Ptolemaic model, the Earth is surrounded by Nine concentric, crystalline spheres (the Moon, Mercury, Venus, the Sun, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, the Fixed Stars, and the Primum Mobile). These spheres are not made of matter; they are Ethereal.

Each sphere is governed by a specific hierarchy of Angelic Intelligences (from standard Angels up to the Seraphim). The angels continuously gaze at the Perfection of God, and their Overwhelming Desire to be closer to that perfection causes them to spin the spheres. The closer a sphere is to God (like the Primum Mobile), the faster it spins, Driven by the Sheer Intensity of its Spiritual Desire.

The Empyrean: The Geometry of the Infinite

The final geometric shift in Paradiso is a complete spatial inversion. Throughout the entire journey, Dante believes the Earth is the center of the Universe, with the heavens revolving around it. But when he finally pierces through the final material sphere into the Empyrean (the True Heaven), he looks back and Realizes his perspective has been inside-out.

In Reality, God is the Center of Everything—an Infinitely Small, Blindingly Bright Point of Light. The Universe radiates outward from that Divine Point. The Earth is actually the furthest, coldest, and darkest edge of Reality.

In the Empyrean, all geometry ceases to function. Space and Time dissolve entirely into a massive amphitheater of Light shaped like a Pure White Rose (the Rosa Mystica), where All the Souls of history sit in Perfectly Still, Rapturous Contemplation, Absorbing the Universal Logos Directly.

The Architect's Exile

Dante's exile was the absolute defining trauma of his life, and without it, the Divine Comedy would not exist.

In 1302, he was a high-ranking politician in Florence. While he was away in Rome on a diplomatic mission to the Pope, a rival political faction (the Black Guelphs) violently seized control of Florence. Dante was falsely accused of corruption, heavily fined, and exiled under pain of being burned at the stake if he ever returned. He lost his wealth, his home, his family, and his civic identity in a single stroke, spending the rest of his Life wandering from court to court across Italy.

From an Esoteric and Philosophical perspective, this brutal severing from his earthly attachments acted as a Forced, Profound Initiation. It influenced the poem in three critical ways:

The Catalyst for the "Dark Wood"

When the Inferno opens with Dante waking up lost in a "dark wood" in the middle of his Life, this is not just a Spiritual metaphor; it is the Literal Reality of his Exile. In Hermetic and Theosophical traditions, the Soul must be violently stripped of its earthly identities, comforts, and ego-attachments before it can perceive Higher Truths. Florence was Dante's entire world and identity. By being cast out of his physical home, he was Forced to Seek a Cosmic One. The exile shifted his perspective from a local Florentine politician to a Universal Sage. He Realized that attaching one's Soul to the shifting, corruptible politics of the material world always leads to the "dark wood."

The Architecture of Absolute Justice

Earthly justice had failed Dante completely. The people who exiled him—and the corrupt Pope Boniface VIII who orchestrated it behind the scenes—were thriving in wealth and power. Because he could find no justice in the material world, Dante used the Divine Comedy to construct a Universe governed by Absolute, Mathematically Perfect Divine Justice. He didn't just write a theological treatise; he weaponized the poem, deliberately placing the very politicians, popes, and aristocratic families who had destroyed his life into highly specific, agonizing circles of Hell. It was an Act of Profound Philosophical Defiance: asserting that the Universal Law outlasts and overrules earthly power.

The Mission of the Prophet

Before his exile, Dante wrote beautiful, but relatively standard, courtly Love poetry. After his exile, he adopted the mantle of a prophet. Because he had lost his earthly citizenship, he claimed citizenship in the Celestial Spheres. He framed his journey not as a personal vision, but as a Divine mandate—Beatrice and the heavens ordered him to travel through the afterlife and report back to a corrupt, fallen humanity to help them correct their course. This is also why he made the radical, subversive choice to write the Comedy in the vernacular Italian dialect rather than the scholarly Latin of the Church. As an exile, he bypassed the corrupt institutional gatekeepers of his day, delivering this massive blueprint of Spiritual Transmutation directly to the people.

The Battle for the Bones

Dante died of malaria in 1321 while returning to Ravenna from a diplomatic mission to Venice. Because his exile from Florence was never lifted during his lifetime, he was buried in his adopted city of Ravenna, right next to the Basilica of San Francesco.
Florence absolutely tried to get his body back—multiple times—leading to a centuries-long, almost comical game of hide-and-seek with his bones. As Dante's fame skyrocketed posthumously, Florence regretted exiling him and realized they were missing out on claiming Italy's greatest poet. They formally requested his remains in 1430 and again in 1476, but Ravenna flatly refused both times.

Then, in 1519, Florence brought out the heavy artillery: Pope Leo X. Because the Pope was a member of the powerful Florentine Medici family, he issued a direct papal decree demanding Ravenna hand over the bones. A Tuscan delegation confidently marched into Ravenna with the Pope's orders, opened the sarcophagus, and found it completely empty. The Franciscan friars of Ravenna, anticipating the raid, had secretly tunneled a hole into the back of the sarcophagus from their adjacent cloister and stolen the bones to keep them out of Florentine hands.

The friars successfully hid Dante's remains for hundreds of years. They sealed them inside a wall to hide them from Napoleon's occupying troops in 1810, and the bones were actually lost until workmen accidentally rediscovered them in a wooden box in 1865. The monks even buried the bones in the garden during World War II to protect them from Allied bombing.

Meanwhile, holding out hope that they would eventually win the standoff, Florence built a massive, glorious monument to Dante in 1829 inside the Basilica of Santa Croce—the church where luminaries like Michelangelo, Machiavelli, and Galileo are buried. Despite their best efforts, Florence never got him back. Their magnificent monument remains an empty cenotaph to this day. Florence has finally accepted defeat, but as a gesture of peace and continued reverence, the city sends a delegation every year in September to provide the Tuscan olive oil that fuels the eternal flame burning inside his tomb in Ravenna.

The Enduring Plumbline

"The battle for Dante’s physical remains is a fittingly earthly coda to a Life that Transcended the material world. Yet, his True legacy is not buried in Ravenna, nor is it an empty tomb in Florence. His legacy is the Divine Comedy itself—an enduring plumbline designed to Align the Human Faculties with Universal Truth. For the modern Seeker willing to look past the medieval dogma, Dante’s journey remains a Timeless, Practical Guide for Transforming the dense lead of human ignorance into the brilliant Gold of Spiritual Illumination."

The Essence of Divine Wisdom

The Right Use of Manifestation & Inward Realization

Wisdom is the Right Use of All that Manifests, and He Who Realizes this Self-Evident, Immutable Truth becomes an open door to All Good that Abides in Creation. The pursuit of this Truth is rarely a fleeting endeavor; it is often the work of decades, a quiet Seeking where the answers to Profound, Specific Questions do not always come together quickly.

To Truly Understand its Esoteric meaning, one must Recognize what it is not. Wisdom is not the accumulation of facts, nor does it come out of books. Foundational texts provide the historical context and the map, but Wisdom is Knowledge Perfected through Inward Realization. As the Kybalion states, "The Lips of Wisdom are Closed, Except to the Ears of Understanding." Without Wisdom and Understanding, life remains in pieces, dull and difficult, because Wisdom is the Serendipity that Connects and Enlivens the Soul.

It is the Inner Realization that Sanctifies Knowledge and Spiritualizes Thought, acting as the Ultimate Food of the Soul. True Wisdom is not found in outward rituals, but in the Inner Sanctuary of Consciousness. It is the True Art of Creation, where Mind, Spirit, and Will Align to Transform accumulated Knowledge into Lived Reality.

The Fire of Sophia and the Hidden Truth

As it is written in 1 Corinthians 2:7, "But we Speak the Wisdom of God in a Mystery, even the Hidden Wisdom, which God ordained before the world Unto Our Glory." Throughout Esoteric history, this Hidden Wisdom has been personified as Sophia, the Goddess of Philosophers. Hers is a Philosophy of Fire, for she kindles the Divine Spark Within the Soul.

Without her enthusiasm—literally, "God-Inspiration"—there is no warmth in our actions. While many abstract the Divine into distant, unapproachable principles, the True Love of Wisdom brings one into Direct Kinship with Sophia. This Kinship brings Immortality and acts as the Guiding Light on the path to Apotheosis.

The Iconography of Holy Sophia (Sapientia)

In the Esoteric Tradition, Divine Wisdom is allegorized not as an abstract principle, but as the Crowned, Celestial Sovereign Sapientia—the Soul's Eternal Guide toward Self-Realization.

The Book of Inward Awakening

Held in her Right Hand, the open volume bears the Delphic Maxim "Know Thyself, and the Universe is Within You," signifying that True Wisdom is not the accumulation of external facts, but the Inward Realization of the Macrocosm reflected in the Micro-Soul.

The Living Fire & Alchemical Vessel

At her base, the Flaming Brazier represents Sophia's Philosophical Fire—the Inner Spark of Divine enthusiasm—while the Alchemical Flask and foundational texts mark the quiet Transmutation of crude, lower Intellect into Pure Spiritual Gold.

The Reconciled Polarities

Crowned beneath the joined Celestial Lights of the Sun and Moon, Sophia holds the Solar Scepter while guarded by the nocturnal Owl of Athena, embodying the "Knowing Heart" capable of Uniting All Opposites in Perfect Divine Balance.

The Hermetic Truth

Her pedestal seals the Eternal Law: "As Above, So Below—in All Things, Wisdom is Present." When the Mind ceases resisting and yields to Humility, this Divine Presence reveals itself across All Creation, turning fragmented Understanding into Unified Spiritual Bliss.

Humility, Love, and the Transmutation of Ignorance

True Wisdom Fears No Thing, but bows Humbly to its own Source; with its deeper Understanding, it Loves ALL THINGS because it has seen the Beauty, Tenderness, and Sweetness Underlying Life's Mystery. This stands in stark contrast to Ignorance, which fears the unknown, falls terror-stricken before the passing wind, and serves as the root cause of all evils, mistakes, and human torment.

Wisdom cannot be imparted to an "idiot," or someone completely devoid of the seed of Understanding, because the seed of Wisdom is not within him. Yet, Wisdom may be imparted to an ignorant person because the seed of Wisdom still exists within them and can be developed through art and culture. An open Mind, willing to Learn and Unlearn, prepares the soil for Mental Transmutation. Through this process of Learning and Refinement, the base metals of Mental Ignorance are Transmuted into Pure, Golden Wisdom.

He who is Wise in his own conceit, approaching Mysteries with resistance, Will Learn Little; but the Humble Seeker Finds the Universe opening before him. The Pursuit of this Divine Wisdom requires Humility, for as one Profound Thought notes, "I Recognize that to Attain Wisdom I Must be Humble and when Wisdom is Mastered I Must be Humbler Still."

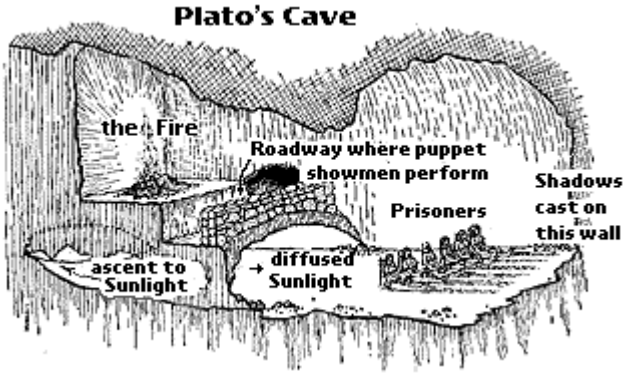
The Rapture of Insight and Infinite Service

In the Deepest Sense, Wisdom and Happiness are Synonymous, and Knowledge is Bliss. In the Ultimate Sense, they are the Very Definition of God, who is Consciousness and Bliss. Whenever the Presence of the Divine is Revealed in Any Manner—no Matter how Minutely—Happiness is Experienced. Even as a minute reflection or a sudden "Insight into Life," it brings a Profound Rapture and Ecstasy. This Spiritual Bliss often arrives quietly, answering questions that have been pondered for years, seemingly emerging from nowhere to connect and enliven the fragmented pieces of Life.

Furthermore, Infinite Wisdom and Infinite Power translate into an Infinite Capacity for Service, because they are Eternally Directed by Inconceivable Divine Love. By accepting the Mighty Active Presence of the Great God Within Each Day in its Fullness, Failure becomes Impossible, and the Harmonious Perfection of the Soul is Achieved.

In the Soul of the Awakened Individual, Divine Wisdom gradually unfolds Within the Mind, just as Divine Life unfolds Within the Heart and Divine Power Within the Will. Magic itself is defined as Divine Wisdom, Power, and Knowledge. To possess this Wisdom is to possess the "Knowing Heart," an organ of Understanding that allows the Spirit to Reconcile All Opposites in a State of Perfect Balance. Ultimately, Knowing Yourself is True Wisdom, and Mastering Yourself is True Power.

Plato's Allegory of the Cave



Plato realizes that the general run of humankind can think and speak without any awareness of his realm of Forms. In this allegory, Plato likens people untutored in the Theory of Forms to prisoners chained in a cave, unable to turn their heads to see each other, the cave entrance, or themselves. Behind them burns a fire, and between the fire and the prisoners is a parapet where puppeteers hold up objects that cast shadows on the wall of the cave.

Because the prisoners are unable to see the real objects passing behind them, they mistake appearance for reality. They think the shadows they see on the wall are real, knowing nothing of the real causes of the shadows.

Language and the Forms

If a prisoner sees the shadow of a book and says, "I see a book," he thinks the word "book" refers to the very thing he is looking at. However, he would be mistaken, as he is only looking at a shadow; the real referent of the word is something he cannot see unless he turns his head.

Plato's point is that the general terms of our language are not names of the physical objects that we can see, but rather names of things that we cannot see—things we can only grasp with the mind. Our very ability to think and to speak depends on the Forms, as the language we use gets its meaning by naming the Forms that physical objects participate in. We may acquire concepts by our perceptual experience, but we are mistaken if we think those concepts exist on the same level as the things we perceive.

The Stages of the Allegory

Their Reality: Because the prisoners have never seen anything else, they believe the shadows are the most real things in the world, naming them and playing games to guess which will appear next.

The Escape: A prisoner is freed and forced to turn around to look at the fire and the objects. This is painful and confusing, but they are eventually dragged out of the cave into the sunlight.

The Light and Truth: The light of the Sun initially blinds the freed prisoner, who prefers the familiar shadows. Slowly, their eyes adjust to see reflections, then objects, and finally, they are able to look directly at the Sun. They realize that the Sun is the source of all light, life, and the reality that makes all things visible—a reality far superior to the cave.

The Return: The freed prisoner feels compelled to return to the cave to tell their former companions the truth and free them.

The Reaction: The returning prisoner's eyes are unaccustomed to the darkness, causing him to stumble. The other prisoners mock him, claiming the journey outside ruined his sight. If he tried to unchain them, they would likely react with violence, believing the shadows are the only true reality.

The Philosophical Meaning

The elements of the allegory are highly symbolic, representing different levels of reality and understanding in Plato's philosophy and his Theory of Forms:

The Cave: Represents the Visible World—the world we perceive through our senses, which is full of illusion and changing appearances.

The Prisoners: Represents Humanity, who are largely ignorant and mistake sensory experience for genuine knowledge.

The Chains: Represents the things that bind people to ignorance: unexamined beliefs, cultural conventions, and the reliance on the senses.

The Shadows: Represents Illusion or Mere Belief—the lowest level of understanding. These are not real but are distorted reflections of real objects.

The Objects/Puppets: Represents Physical Objects—the things we perceive daily, which are imperfect copies of the true Forms.

The Fire: Represents the Sun in the visible world—a source of light and understanding that is still artificial and imperfect compared to the true Sun.

The Journey Out: Represents the Philosopher's Quest for Knowledge—the difficult ascent of the soul to the Intelligible Realm through reason and dialectic.

The Sun: Represents the Form of the Good—the ultimate reality, the source of all truth, knowledge, and existence, which illuminates all other Forms.

The Returning Philosopher: Represents the Philosopher-King—the individual who has achieved True Knowledge and is obligated to return to the political world to educate and govern, even if they are rejected.

The Rod and Staff

The symbols of the Rod and Staff are deeply rooted in ancient culture, particularly in shepherding, and have a rich and multifaceted esoteric meaning that extends beyond their literal function. While they are most famously known from Psalm 23, their symbolism appears in various spiritual and mythological traditions.

The Rod represents Divine Authority, Power, and Correction. It is typically a shorter, heavier club that shepherds used for protection against predators and for disciplining wayward sheep. A symbol of a ruler's or Deity's Power, like a scepter it signifies a Forceful, active, and sometimes punishing authority. It represents the power of God to act decisively in the world. It is used for Correction and Discipline which is not necessarily a negative meaning; rather, it's about setting a person back on the right path when they stray. In a Spiritual context, it represents the Divine Force that brings us back into alignment with our purpose or a Higher Will. It can be seen as representing assertive, and sometimes aggressive Masculine Energy. It is the active principle, the Force that strikes out and acts upon the world.

The Staff represents Gentle Guidance, Support, Protection and Comfort. It is longer and often has a hook or crook at the end. Its primary uses were for guiding sheep, pulling them out of danger, and providing support. It is used to guide the flock, not to punish it. The crook allows the shepherd to gently pull a sheep back from a cliff or to rescue it from a difficult situation. This symbolizes the more compassionate and nurturing aspect of Divine guidance - a steady hand that keeps you on the right path. It serves as a walking stick, providing support to the shepherd on difficult terrain symbolizing the Divine support and strength we can lean on during challenging times. As a symbol of sustenance and comfort it can be seen as representing feminine, receptive, and nurturing energy. It is the passive principle, the Force that guides, supports, and pulls things toward it.

When the Rod and Staff are considered together, as in the famous phrase "Thy Rod and thy Staff, they comfort me," they form a complete picture of Divine care. They represent a balanced approach to Spiritual guidance that incorporates both masculine and feminine, active and passive, and disciplinary and nurturing energies. They are a powerful duality, symbolizing the two sides of Divine action. The Rod represents the necessary force that protects from external threats and corrects internal failings, while the Staff represents the gentle guidance and support that leads us through life's challenges. The comfort comes from knowing that both of these Forces are at work for your benefit. You are protected from harm

(the Rod), and you are gently led and supported (the Staff ensuring that you are both safe and on the correct path.

In psychological and Spiritual terms, the Rod can represent the "Inner Authority" - the part of the self that can make difficult choices and enforce discipline. The Staff, on the other hand, can represent the "outer support" - the trust in a Higher Power, community, or even the Subconscious Mind that provides guidance and comfort.

In essence, the Rod and Staff is a profound symbol of the comprehensive nature of Divine Providence. It's a reminder that True Spiritual guidance involves both strong, protective action and gentle, compassionate care, and that both are essential for navigating the journey of Life.

Philosophical Aphorisms, Epigrams, and Maxims

Who can Overcome him whose Mind is stayed on God?

The Wise man, and the despiser of wealth, resemble God.

I am Nothing, yet I AM Everything.

Do not investigate the name of God, because you will not find it. For everything which is called by a name, receives its appellation from that which is more worthy than itself, so that it is one person that calls, and another that hears. Who is it, therefore, that has given a name to God? God, however, is not a name to God, but an indication of what we conceive of Him.

God is a Light incapable of receiving its contrary, darkness.

If you identify with your Oness of Spirit, by the Law of Affinity, that is what you will become.

You have Within yourself something similar to God, and therefore use yourself as the Temple of God, on account of that which is Within you resembles God.

I Understand that which it is Impossible to define, That is God.

The Mind Overcomes. The Hidden is Revealed. Seek the Truth.

Honor God above All Things, that He may Rule over you.

The greatest of all Masters is the Master within, for this Master is Ultimately, and at its Deepest Level, the Divine Itself.

Whatever you Honor above All Things, that which you so Honor will have Dominion over you. But if you give yourself to the Domination of God, you will thus have Dominion over All Things.

To neglect things of the smallest consequence, is not the least thing in human Life.

The greatest Honor which can be paid to God, is to Know and Imitate Him.

Mind is First Cause; Creation is the Effect.

Psychic manipulation of matter is the Normal Occurrence.

There is not anything, indeed, which wholly resembles God; nevertheless, the Imitation of Him as much as possible by an inferior nature is grateful to Him.

A healthy Mind is a Castle that cannot be invaded without the Will of its Master.

God, indeed, is not in want of anything, but the Wise man is in want of God Alone. He, therefore, who is in want but of few things, and those necessary, emulates Him who is in want of nothing.

Endeavor to be great in the estimation of Divinity, but among men avoid envy.

I Am with God and God is with Me, But God only is God and I Am His Son.

The Wise man whose estimation with men was but small while he was living, will be renowned when he is dead.

Consider all the time to be lost to you in which you Do Not Think of Divinity.

A good Intellect is the choir of Divinity.

I AM a Pure, Perfect, Unlimited, Creative, Spiritual Energy Light Being that can Never Fail..

A bad Intellect is the choir of evil Demons.

Honour that which is Just, on this very account that it is Just.

You will not be concealed from Divinity when you act unjustly, nor even when you think of doing so.

There is No Thought so Extensive or so Profound as to Comprehend the Infinite Expanse of Divine Creations.

The Divine Mind of God is a Fierce, Absolute and Uncompromising Force.

The foundation of piety is continence; but the Summit of Piety is the Love of God.

Wish that what is expedient and not what is pleasing may happen to you.
